

PERET PLANS AMERICAN TRIP ON DEBT PACT

French Minister To Come To United States After Completing Negotiations
in London.

SETTLEMENT SEEN AS AID TO FRANC

Franco-American Deadlock Is Settled by Agreement on Short Moratorium, According to Paris

Paris, April 15.—(AP)—M. Peret, the French minister of finance, according to reliable information, has decided to cross the Atlantic and finish up the war debt settlement with the United States after the negotiations at London.

M. Peret will have a few weeks at his disposal in May and June while parliament is adjourned, and persons close to him say he means to use them to get the inter-allied debts finally off the docket.

The finance minister is convinced that nothing effective can be done towards stabilizing the franc until the debts are out of the way. The news from Washington regarding Ambassador Berenger's negotiations is said in official circles to be good, and there is much optimism as to the possibility of coming to an agreement.

Settlement of the American war debt seems to be looked forward to with less anxiety than settlement of the British debt, since the latter, under the British requirements, will call for the payment of $2,500,000,000 pounds annually, with the first payment to be made in the forthcoming British budget.

The insistence of Winston Churchill, British chancellor of the exchequer, that M. Peret make an early visit to London to finish the negotiations is one of the factors mentioned in financial circles as responsible for the weakness of the franc.

FRANCE PREPARES BASIS OF ACCORD.

BY HENRY WALES.

Paris, April 15.—The basis of an accord for the negotiation of the French war debt to the United States is expected to be reached at the end of this week, said a Quai d'Orsay spokesman today.

A hint has been dropped in official quarters that the Franco-American debt deadlock was overcome through a great juggling act which provided for a short moratorium on the $200,000,000 interest Paris has been paying on $400,000,000 worth of American army stocks purchased in 1919, thereby making all French payments of interest for several years apply directly on the $400,000,000 war debt.

It further is confirmed that the figures under consideration in Washington are the initial annuities to run between $25,000,000 and $50,000,000 annually, with important increases beginning later than five years, when the interest on the army stocks begins again.

The Tribune Press service is informed that M. Peret intends to make a tentative offer to Great Britain of similar payments the same size as the minimum the United States accepts, but with a revision downward from $62,500,000 annually.

PASSAIC STRIKE SITUATION GRAVE; RIOTING EXPECTED

One County Virtually
Under Martial Law;
Picketing Plans in Washington Fail.

GUNS AND BOMBS STORED AT MILLS

Textile Strike, Now in Twelfth Week, Has Been Marked by Numerous Disturbances.

Passaic, N. J., April 15.—With one county in the textile strike area under virtual martial law and 150 deputies armed with shotguns ready to be sent into another, the situation in Passaic and surrounding towns continued grave Thursday night despite a day of inactivity on the part of the 16,000 strikers who waited word from pickets in Washington and Trenton.

As police dispersed the group of strikers and their children about the white house and the Trenton picketing failed because of the illness of Governor Moore, authorities prepared for renewed disturbances.

Civilians were hastily sworn in as deputies and while no soldiers were used, the district took on the appearance of an armed camp as police patrolled the streets with guns prominently displayed.

Strangers Are Barred.

Strangers whom the police judged suspicious were hustled out of town and small groups on street corners were dispersed as soon as they had gathered.

In one of the Garfield mills, where rioting is especially feared, Sheriff Nimmo, of Bergen county, has stored machine guns and a quantity of tear bombs.

It was Nimmo who a few days ago read the riot act under the provisions of which virtual martial law reigns throughout Bergen county. The police are unchecked in breaking up assemblies and have almost unlimited powers.

The Rev. Dr. Norman Thomas, one-time candidate for mayor and governor of New York, who was arrested in Garfield Wednesday on the grounds of unlawful assembly, was released in $10,000 bail Thursday afternoon. He has been held overnight in a cell in the Hackensack jail.

A patrolman testifying against Thomas before Justice of the Peace Hargreaves, who held the socialist leader for the action of the grand jury, accused Thomas of uttering "seditious words." The clergyman had denounced the arrest and $30,000 bail in which Albert Weisbord, strike leader, is being held.

"Judicial Tyranny"

Before the hearing began Dr. Thomas told of what he called "an amazing and outrageous example of judicial tyranny."

John Bistriz, a striker of Garfield, Thomas said, was arrested on a charge of disorderly conduct by a policeman who thought the man was thumbing his nose at him, while Bistriz was merely lighting his pipe. Found guilty and unable to pay fine and costs of $21, Bistriz was sentenced to a year in jail.

A further attempt to free Weisbord was made Thursday. Supreme Court Justice Black, in Jersey City, signed an order directing Sheriff Charles Morgan of Passaic county to produce Weisbord at Paterson on Saturday.

To show cause why he should be kept in jail. He was imprisoned on charges of inciting to riot and distributing communistic literature.

Box Office Advice to Public Is To Line Up
Now and Avoid Rush of Late Purchasers.

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Monday night—next Monday, just three days off—the auditorium—eight o'clock—"Aida"—Ponselle, Martinelli—Bohnen—and Clausen. To say nothing of the great Metropolitan production, the orchestra under Conductor Tullio Serafin, the ballet, the rest of the glorious cast, the chorus, the stage settings, the costumes, the audience and all the glitter and splendor and glory and enthusiasm of an Atlanta first opera night.

That's the big news of the day.

For Monday begins opera week, the biggest week in the year for Atlanta and the south, and the anticipation we have enjoyed for weeks past is about to be transformed into realization. All we have read and dreamed and thought and promised ourselves is coming true. Final arrangements are now made and everything—with one small exception—is as it has been promised.

Individually, it is to be hoped Mr. and Mrs. Atlanta themselves are ready. It is to be hoped that the costume is bought and prepared for the gala opening night. If it isn't, rush down to the shops today or tomorrow. Don't, possibly Monday morning. But don't put it off any longer than you can help. For everything must be perfect Monday night, and remember, the audience is always an important part of operatic occasions in the city. So do your duty and let your family uphold the Atlanta tradition nobly when they walk to their box or orchestra chair—or where are they located—those seats of yours?

Discovers a Tardy One.

Don't tell me you haven't got them yet! Shame. A visit to the Cable Piano company Thursday afternoon disclosed one dilatory man buying tickets.

The charming ticket seller told me Thursday that there were a few good seats left for all the operas, but that the sale this year was far heavier than last year. There has been a tremendous final week rush, particularly for "Don Quixote," "Boheme," and "Jewels of the Madonna." But the others were leading before this last-minute spurt, so you are in danger of finding all seats gone for your performance, if you delay any longer getting seats.

By the way, the Atlanta Music Festival association is putting a new plan into operation this year, and the box office. You will recall that in the past it was merely to the auditorium—Monday morning of opera week and kept there until the last seat was sold on Saturday night. This year tickets are going to be sold at the Cable Piano company building throughout the entire week, with the exception of an hour or two each day before curtain time. Thus, on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Friday (days on which there are no matinees) the box office will remain open at the Cable company until 5 o'clock each afternoon. It will be continued on Page 4, Column 2.

Sunday Sports At State Army Posts Rapped

Harris To Confer With War Department Following Protest.

Following receipt of news dispatches from Washington to the effect that protest has been filed with Senator William J. Harris in connection with Sunday activities at some of the military reservations in Georgia, officers at Fort McPherson stated Thursday night that they desired to explain the situation from their viewpoint and said funds derived from Sunday sports were devoted to beneficent purposes.

The protest pointed out that polo games, at which a sum is charged for admission, have become the custom at certain Georgia camps on Sunday and Senator Harris was asked to take the matter up with the war department.

Post officers said no charge is made for admission to polo games, but a small fee is assessed for cars parked at advantageous points. After expenses are paid, remaining funds are turned over to charitable organizations, they added.

However, it was explained, a small charge is made for persons admitted to baseball games, and this is done to pay off the debt incurred by erection of seats to accommodate crowds.

"There's nothing mercenary about the donations and it will be recalled that last year the post gave $800 to the Atlanta firemen's widows and orphans' fund, the money being raised by benefit sports," Captain N. V. Fortier, publicity director, stated.

Officers Tell Court That They Changed State-

BY RALPH T. JONES.

Marine Base, San Diego, Calif., April 15.—(AP)—A rear-admiral seized the helm of the cocktail court-martial of Colonel Alexander S. Williams, just as it was being steered into the port of final arguments here today and swung the case back into the storm waters of testimony bearing on Brigadier General Butler back into the case a few moments after the judge advocate announced at the opening of today's session that he had no rebuttal witnesses and was ready to proceed with arguments.

The rear admiral was Thomas Washington, commandant of the Twelfth Naval district and president of the court trying Colonel Williams.

Admiral Washington brought Brigadier General Butler back into the case a few moments after the judge advocate announced at the opening of today's session that he had no rebuttal witnesses and was ready to proceed with arguments.

Will Question Witnesses.

And when court adjourned until tomorrow at 10 a. m. it was announced that the admiral and his colleagues of the court-martial board had still other questions to ask witnesses yet to be summoned.

General Butler himself took the stand and denied categorically that he had coerced or attempted to coerce his subordinates into making statements that Colonel Williams was drunk. But the general was followed by other officers who swore they had changed essential portions of previous statements as a result of the general's warning that they must "come clean or you'll all get into trouble."

One of these officers was Captain Clifford B. Cates, a member of General Williams' staff and of the colonel's defense counsel.

Captain Cates said he made one written statement of the Coronado cocktail episode at the request of General Butler in which he asserted he had seen nothing unusual in the colonel's behavior except that he was "unsteady on his feet," but that after having been reprimanded by the general for "equivocating," he had prepared another statement containing the phrase "unusually unsteady," a feat, which was caused by being drunk, sick or "doped."

"Must Come Clean."

"The general called me into his office after reading my first statement," Cates testified, "and said: 'Don't you know Colonel Williams was drunk? Well, I know he was drunk. I saw him take four or five drinks.'"

"Now I want you to know you youngsters will have to come clean or you'll get into trouble also."

"I know you are crying to be loyal to Colonel Williams and I respect you for it. But I want the truth about this."

Another second officer, Second Lieutenant Lewis S. Roberts, said he and several others were called on the carpet by General Butler and told their statements were highly unsatisfactory.

"So, in my second statement," said Roberts, "instead of saying 'the colonel's walk was unsteady,' I wrote 'the colonel had the appearance of being intoxicated or otherwise bewildered.'"

General Butler did not deny in his testimony that he had rebuked his subordinates for their "equivocating" statements on the subject of Colonel Williams.

FLORIDA TO TAKE STATE INVENTORY

For Big Meeting.

West Palm Beach, Fla., April 15.—(AP)—Bankers, business men and civic leaders from all Florida gathered here tonight for a meeting tomorrow at which an inventory of the state will be taken.

The congress, called by the Florida State Chamber of Commerce, will seek to determine the liabilities and assets of Florida, will take stock of the permanent improvements and discuss conditions as they exist today. At the close a program for the future will be adopted.

For several weeks an intensive survey of every factor that enters into Florida's permanent development has been conducted. Statistics covering residential, business and industrial construction over the last three-year period have been compiled. The survey has revealed reports on construction to be accomplished during 1926 at an investment approaching $1,000,000,000.

Close of the special session of the Georgia assembly Thursday was featured by announcement of two of its members—both in the house of representatives—for the office of governor in the September primary elections. The two new aspirants are W. Cecil Neill, speaker of the house and veteran member from Muscogee, and Joe Wood, member from Fulton.

Entry of Speaker Neill and Mr. Wood brings the total of aspirants for the governor's office to an even half dozen. Speaker Neill's announcement was expected, as he had previously indicated his intention to issue formal announcement of his candidacy, but that of Mr. Wood was a new development in the six-cornered race.

The announcement of Mr. Wood was as follows:

"I am a candidate for the governorship under the regulations of the primary election to be held in September. It is not my purpose to make a more extended statement at this time, than merely to announce my candidacy. I am leaving shortly on a trip to Cuba and, upon my return to Atlanta, or about the first of the coming month, I shall declare the principles and paramount issues upon which I shall make the campaign, and on which I shall go into every county in the state."

Leaves for Cuba.

Representative Wood stated that he would leave immediately with General Nathan Bedford Forrest on a trip through various sections of south Georgia, after which he would go to Cuba with the Georgia Press association, following its 1926 meeting at Valdosta.

The Fulton county representative, in the legislature stated that he intended to enter into his campaign actively after his return from Cuba, which he expects to conduct from that time until the date of the primary election in September.

While refusing to comment further on issues of his platform than was contained in his brief statement, Mr. Wood did say that his campaign would be based directly upon paramount principles of state government, and

Chicago Clerk Contest Won By Dead Man

Man Who Came Poor Sec-

Nomination.

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Chicago, Ill., April 15.—Republicans of Chicago are involved in one of the most intricate problems between the voters, at Tuesday's primaries, nominated for the office of clerk of the appellate court, the late Francis P. Brady. His name had been printed on the ballots prior to his death. The fact that he was dead was well-known to all voters, but notwithstanding this, he received 215,739 votes, or a clear plurality of 94,641 votes over his nearest opponent.

Notwithstanding the fact that Brady had died several days prior to the primaries, the Crows-Barrett-Brennan combination, on whose ticket his name appeared, urged voters to cast their ballots for him, in the belief that the republican county committee would have the power, under the primary law, to fill the vacancy by appointment. But, until credentials of nomination are issued by the secretary of state, the committee cannot act.

Now William Walter Scott, who ran a poor second, has indicated his intention to enjoin the secretary of state from issuing credentials to Brady, as his death several days before the primaries were held, was a matter of general knowledge.

HUSBAND GRANTED DIVORCE ON CRUELTY CHARGE

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Chicago, Ill., April 15.—Alice Worthington, daughter of "Honest John" Worthington, late "Wolf of LaSalle street," who died in Atlanta penitentiary, was pictured today as the "Wildcat of Woodlawn" by Charlton D. Otosen, a strapping big man who was granted a divorce from her. Miss Worthington did not appear in court to affirm or deny the charge that she had been married to Otosen in December, 1923, and had lived with him until May, 1924. She is said to be working as a telephone operator in a north side hotel and had no time to waste in court.

"She was cruel to me," said Mr. Otosen, with deep pathos. "I loved her, but she had a temper no man could endure. When she was angry she would beat me."

"Is that possible?" commented the court, looking over Otosen's burly frame.

"It is indeed possible," continued the husband. "I thought she would make me a good wife, but she tried, by strenuous methods, to make me a 'good' husband."

The court ordered his decree written up.

TINCHER OFFERS FARM RELIEF BILL ON JARDINE PLAN

Measure Provides Farmers' Cooperative Association With Loan Fund and Federal Credit.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, April 15.—A billion-dollar plan to finance the marketing of farm products under government direction, so as to increase the profits of farmers was presented to the house today in a bill by Representative Tinchler, republican, of Kansas, designed to embody the views of the Coolidge administration on farm relief.

The bill proposes an appropriation from the federal treasury of $100,000,000 for loans to cooperative associations marketing farm products and the issuance of debentures to the amount of $1,000,000,000 to finance marketing operations on a vast scale under the direction of a farmers' marketing commission appointed by the president.

Avoids Price Fixing.

In accordance with the views of the president and Secretary of Agriculture, the bill avoids the devices of the Dickinson and the corn belt bills for taking the surplus off the domestic market and raising the price of the remainder to the American consumer. These devices the administration regards as a species of price-fixing. The aim of the Tinchler bill is to bring about higher prices on farm products through regulation of production and marketing so that the market never will be glutted and farmers never compelled to sell their products for an inadequate return.

The bill also omits provision for an equalization fee assessed on farm commodities to cover marketing losses which is an essential feature of the Dickinson and corn belt surplus control bills. The administration is against the equalization fee, regarding it as a concomitant of nearly all price-fixing schemes and believing that in any event it would be regarded by the farmers as a tax, and, therefore, would be highly unpopular.

In place of an equalization fee, however, the Tinchler bill proposes that a cooperative association shall repay loans made by the marketing commission "by imposing a charge in a manner approved by the commission on the commodity marketed by or through the association, which will, in the judgment of the commission, during a period not to exceed 20 years, repay such loan, including interest thereon."

The bill provides for the establishment in the treasury of a farmers' marketing commission loan fund, in which repayments of loans made by the commission shall be replaced and reserved until 1950, for the use of the commission in making such loans as provided for in this act.

Washington, April 15.—President Coolidge recovered tonight from his slight indisposition Thursday afternoon, which forced him to go to bed and cancel engagements.

Late in the day he arose and went to the executive offices, where he worked for a time before taking his customary evening walk around the white house grounds.

Major James F. Coupal, U. S. A., his physician, who had examined him earlier, had advised him to go to bed and cancel his engagements for the day. He said the executive was suffering from a slight intestinal disorder similar to the one suffered early last summer.

DRY LEAGUE ASKS ANDREWS TO QUIT

Government Officials Believe Statement of Andrews Was Ill-Advised
At This Time.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.
(Copyright, 1926, by The United News.)

Washington, April 15.—Restoration of beer or any other weakening of the Volstead act is opposed by President Coolidge, the United News is informed.

When Lincoln C. Andrews, assistant secretary of the treasury and chief enforcement officer, told the senate judiciary subcommittee that sale of light beer non-intoxicating in fact under government supervision would aid enforcement, he spoke without the approval of the president.

President Coolidge does not believe the Volstead act should be weakened in any direction. On the contrary, he has approved the legislative recommendations and budget requests for additional authority and funds to make enforcement effective.

Whether this difference of opinion between the president and Andrews means the imminent retirement of the chief enforcement officer is uncertain. Drys are demanding that Andrews be dismissed.

There is some feeling among government officials that the statement for beer was ill-advised even though it was presented as the personal view of Andrews in answer to a hypothetical question by Senator Reed.

Andrews Scored.

Andrews has been subjected to severe criticism by drys recently because of his malt extract permits and because of appointment of certain enforcement men regarded with suspicion by the drys. In some quarters it is felt that Andrews made a mistake in giving encouragement to the impression that he is not in full sympathy with the Volstead act.

Andrews sought to take the edge from this wave of criticism by issuing a statement in which he emphasized that the Volstead act was a theoretical question and had not pressed for a change in the law and is urging stronger enforcement laws.

"The hypothetical question put to me before the senate committee was 'if non-intoxicating cereal beverages or beer could be distributed under government supervision for home consumption, and in bona fide hotels, to be taken with meals, would this probably aid law enforcement?' Andrews said.

"I am not advocating any change in this law. On the contrary we have recently perfected plans and are seeking additional authority and

Browning's "Peaches" Bride

"SHE'S JUST WONDERFUL," GUSHES CHILD-BRIDE

Visits New Step-Daughter

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune)

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Half-hidden by bundles of toys and games, 15-year-old Mrs. Frances (Peaches) Heenan-Browning clambered over the steps of the Rayson school late today to be welcomed into the Browning fold by her step-daughter, little Dorothy (Sunshine), two years her junior.

Peaches was accompanied by her grey-haired 51-year-old husband, Edward West Browning, real estate millionaire and patron of young women. On her engagement finger—which up to today was bare, save for a little platinum wedding band—she gleamed a big, square diamond, set in platinum.

And on her right hand was another new ring, a golden three-leaf clover, set with diamonds.

Browning and his bride, after leaving his office, drove to a toy store and then directly to the private school on Riverside Drive. The hurried realtor expressed displeasure when, on drawing up to the school, he discovered several cars of newspaper men had followed him. But indoors, the first homey gathering of the whole Browning family was a strictly private affair.

Peaches Enthusiastic.

When Peaches reappeared on the front steps she was radiantly enthusiastic about her 13-year-old step-child. "Oh, she's such a sweet girl," was Peaches' effusion. "She's just wonderful, and I love her already."

The newly-weds returned to the Hotel Gramatan, in Bronxville, for the night.

Earlier, Peaches was the center of interest in an exciting shopping tour of three hours that attracted thousands of curious and stopped traffic on Fifth avenue at intervals. The bride invested lavishly in new attire from head to foot, wearing some of it out of the fashionable shops she visited.

Still earlier the guardianship proceedings which cast a shadow on the Browning romance were dropped in children's court, when Judge Franklin Chase Hoyt vacated the summons for Mrs. Heenan. In dismissing the action, brought by the Children's society to delinquent the fitness of Mrs. Heenan as a guardian for her daughter, Judge Hoyt said:

"This particular case has served to call the public's attention to the desirability of improving existing laws in respect to child marriages."

Neither of the principals were in court.

He was a member of the Princeton football teams of 1907, 1908 and 1909, having captained the eleven in the latter year. He was admitted to the bar and practiced law in Charleston three years, then entered the publishing business as secretary and treasurer of the News and Courier company, succeeding the late James Simmons as president in 1919. He served as a director of the Southern Newspaper Publishers' association. He is survived by a widow, formerly Miss Lucille Bee Leiby, of Charleston, and a young daughter. FINANCE BODY FAVORS $6,000 EXPENDITURE

Requests for a appropriations aggregating more than $6,000 were recommended favorably Thursday by the city finance committee of city council.

These will go to council Monday for ratification.

Alderman Charles M. Ford, of the tenth, urged a fund of about $3,000 for laying a six-inch water main on Lawton street from Donnelly avenue to Peoples street. This is an extension of Lawton which the county has agreed to pave, but which has been held up due to lack of funds to lay the main. Mr. Ford explained. The request was passed and the money will be taken from current revenue, provided council at the mayor approve it.

An appropriation of $1,500 was recommended to help defray expenses of the governor's horse guard to the sesquicentennial exposition in Philadelphia in July. George M. Napier, attorney general, and Joseph A. McGord headed a delegation making the request.

Councilman C. G. Allen, of the second, requested an appropriation of $2,000 to pay the city's share in paving Washington street. This was approved.

A retaining wall will be built at a cost of $800 at the Old Women's home, if a request of Councilman Willie Moore, of the seventh, is approved by council and Mayor Sims.

A delegation asking relocation of the Carrie Steele orphanage was heard but action was deferred to permit investigation by a subcommittee to be named later.

Alderman William B. Hartstied, of the third, chairman of council's police committee, asked funds to employ 20 additional policemen and $5,000 additional to develop Candler field, Atlanta's airport. No action was taken.

JURY DEMANDS ITS PAY BEFORE READING VERDICT

Tampa, Fla., April 15.—A jury in county court here, after reaching a verdict in a civil suit trial, refused to read it until it had been assured of its pay.

The six men were called in from courthouse corridors to hear the case. After it had filed in the verdict, the foreman asked Judge Cornelius to assure them of their pay by the litigants before the verdict was read.

One of the lawyers handed the foreman a check for $18 to be split among the six and the verdict was read.

SCHOOL TAX LAWS FACE COURT TEST

Macon, Ga., April 15.—(AP)—After two days of preliminary meetings of city and county school officials, the 61st annual session of the Georgia Education association organized at 8:30 o'clock tonight, and will continue to have sessions through Friday and Saturday. There will be departmental meetings on Friday afternoon.

The appearance of Miss Mary McSkimmon, president of the National Education association, on the program tonight was the feature of the opening session.

Mr. P. Martin, president of the Georgia Educational association, who also spoke, declared "we have made education too soft for the pupil and have stressed text book work and marking so there is little desire to get knowledge for the pure love of it or for the honest need, but for the mark."

Mr. Martin closed with a plea for the best minds and the highest hearts and the best trained teachers for the schools of Georgia. "In order to have such a teaching force," he said, "we must have salaries commensurate with their training and work."

Consolidation, finances and various other school problems were discussed by more than a score of speakers at the meetings of the county school officials during the day.

"If we determine that we shall not permit the children of our state to any longer waste time on account of lack of coordination and standardization in our schools, and that though the number of our schools be few, they shall be the very best, then we shall have a unified state system of schools and a coordinated system of high schools in our state and education will be on a more progressive basis," said E. A. Pound, state supervisor of high schools, in addressing the city and county officials today.

Should Standardize.

Mr. Pound gave the following ways of standardizing school work: A survey of schools in the county to determine if school is wisely graded; a wise distribution of junior high schools in logical centers of population; consolidation of several schools in order to develop strong high schools; a standardization of every high school; coordination and correlation.

Other speakers were Dr. E. J. Forester, of Sparta; Mrs. Fred Wessels, of Savannah, representing the Georgia Parent-Teachers; L. M. Lester, Griffin; J. O. Martin, state school supervisor; Miss Annie Brumby, of Polk county; T. A. Glover, Hawkinsville; M. L. Duggan, Atlanta; W. B. Morris, Hart county; John B. Gurry, Montezuma; J. M. Starr, Coweta county; B. D. Purcell, Wayne county, and others.

PUFFED WHEAT. A Unique Cereal That Tastes Good When Nothing Else Does

MOST people grow tired of the same foods day after day at breakfast. Thus the start of many days is spoiled.

Just try this. Note then the difference that comes: Give the family the "something different" that they crave. Obtain a package of Puffed Wheat at any grocery store.

It's whole wheat puffed by steam to 8 times its normal size; then richly oven toasted.

It tastes like nutmeats; crunches in the mouth like fresh toast—totally and deliciously different from any other cereal known.

Its food value is that of fine wheat. Almost 20% is bran, but you would never guess it. Puffed Wheat is that rare combination; food that's good for you that you eat because you love it.

Serve with cream or milk, with fresh and cooked fruits; there are scores of ways, each one a new delight. Attractive suggestions for serving are on every package.

SOCIETY WOMAN IS VICTIM OF $40,000 JEWEL ROBBERY

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Theft of jewels valued at $40,000, from the home of Muriel Dundas, wealthy society woman, at 71 Park avenue, was reported to police today. Investigation revealed the disappearance of a window cleaner who had been alone in the apartment prior to the theft.

Miss Dundas is reputed to be one of the wealthiest orphans in the country. A fortune of nearly $40,000,000 was left her at the death of her father, Ralph Wurtz Dundas, a connection of the socially famous Dundas-Lippincott family of Philadelphia.

Important note: Many women have formerly used two or three different kinds of insecticides—one for flies, one for mosquitoes, one for roaches, and so forth. This is not necessary with Fly-Flu, as this marvelous new insecticide kills all breeds of insects instantly. All insects breathe through their skins, and Fly-Flu, when sprayed, closes these pores and smothers them. Fly-Flu and the Fly-Flu hand-sprayer are sure death to ALL insects.

fly-flu

is harmless to humans, to plants, to animals, and to fine fabrics—cannot stain. It is an excellent deodorant and when used fills the air with a pleasant, aromatic mist.

FLY-FLU

Think of it—In the extract of the rare and attractive Pyrethrum flower, a famous Southern Physician has discovered a poison that instantly kills flies, mosquitoes, roaches, water-bugs, moths (and their eggs), ants, fleas, and all other forms of insect life, and yet a preparation that is as harmless to humans, animals and fabrics as a rose.

But, better still, in this marvelous new insecticide, which he calls Fly-Flu, this distinguished Physician has discovered a way of converting this extract into a fine, delightful, aromatic spray that can be used anywhere without the slightest danger to anything you value.

All of the things you've wished for in an insecticide are combined in Fly-Flu. To every insect breed it brings swift, sure death. It is so excellent deodorant and cannot stain. It reaches down into cracks and corners, penetrates every nook and cranny.

Protect the family's health this summer, and relieve your own peace of mind by using Fly-Flu often and thoroughly. Your grocer or druggist sells it. Order a bottle of Fly-Flu today.

INCOME TAX RETURNS GUARDED UNDER RULES

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—Only the income tax payer and his attorney may inspect his individual income tax return under new rules governing publicity of returns authorized by President Coolidge and made public today by Secretary Mellon.

Publication of the amount of income tax payments, which was allowed under the old law, or of any part of the return is a misdemeanor under the new regulations, punishable by $1,000 fine.

They provide that an officer of a corporation may inspect its corporate tax returns, and any state officer may inspect a corporation's tax return. In case of death of the taxpayer his next of kin or executor may inspect the return. Government officers may inspect the returns at the discretion of Secretary Mellon.

HOW TO GET RID OF MUSCLE-LAMENESS

Beach Patrolman Advises this Treatment

After exposure to dampness and cold, and after hard exercise, muscles will stiffen up and get lame.

A beach patrolman at Atlantic City writes that he has found this treatment the quickest and most effective way to take out the stiffness and pain. "Just pat on a little of Sloan's Liniment. Don't rub. It's the liniment—not the rubbing—that helps. You'll get relief right away. I've tried all sorts of other things, but nothing gets results like Sloan's."

Hundreds of letters like this tell of the wonderful relief from muscular pain that Sloan's gives.

Sloan's gets results because it doesn't just deaden pain, it gets at the cause. Right to the place that hurts it brings a healing stream of fresh, new blood. Quickly and surely it carries off the "fatigue-poisons," takes out stiffness and drives away the aches and pains.

Democrats Urge Germany To Pay Lusitania Claims

Washington, April 15.—(AP)—A campaign by house democrats to insist that Germany be required to pay all claims arising out of the sinking of the Lusitania was mapped out today.

It is the outgrowth of a partisan battle at a closed session of the ways and means committee over the Mills bill, which provides for issuing $250,000,000 federal bonds to cover just-claims of German-American war claims.

Today's row came as an aftermath of the request made at a committee meeting yesterday by Representative Garner, democrat, Texas, that Secretary Mellon furnish a list of all insurance companies showing profits for war time operations. Republican committee members objected, however, to "forcing" the treasury department to make public data that during the war was kept secret.

At today's session motions by Representative Rainey, democrat, Illinois, to exclude insurance claims or ship losses and claims of all insurance companies showing profits on war time transactions were defeated, with republicans voting solidly in opposition, and democrats a unit in support of them.

On Thursday and Saturday, matinee days, it will close at the Cable company at 12 noon, and open at the auditorium at 12:30. The curtain rises for evening performances each night at 8 and for matinees at 2.

There is much interesting news about individuals connected with opera. First, let's talk about the one little exception I mentioned, Jeanne Gordon, who was in the "Aida" Monday night, cannot come because of a slight illness. Her place will be taken by Julia Claussen. Now, there is no intent to cast any reflection on Miss Gordon's contralto ability, but to those of us who remember the manner in which Miss Claussen sang "America" three years ago, there is nothing to regret over the change. On that occasion Miss Claussen was so wonderfully good that she carried off all the honors of the occasion.

Rosa in Our Midst.

Rosa Ponselle, who is the "Aida," is already in town, you know. She arrived Wednesday morning and immediately installed herself in her suite at the Biltmore. She has been seen a number of times since. On Wednesday night, during the banquet of the Country Bankers' Association of Georgia, the Old West choir, the leading aggregation of negro singers in the city, were pouring forth negro spirituals for the pleasure of the financial guests. Miss Ponselle couldn't resist the lure of negro folk-song and stood for some time at the door to the ballroom listening.

Then, on Thursday, she came downtown and did a little shopping at Rich's. She is reported to have spent about $500—or some such trifling amount—at the lingerie counter. And on Friday night she has made reservations to view Atlanta's own Junior League "Follies," now holding forth at the Atlanta theater.

You will note that the lovely Rosa is perfectly at home in Atlanta. And why shouldn't she be? This has been her second home ever since she and her sister sang here at the Foreth in her Keith vaudeville days, before training had brought out that gorgeous soprano voice which now ranks second to none in international song circles. Rosa is almost an Atlantan. Today, and all of next week, in fact, she will be an Atlantan as we are proud of, and, to be quite candid, a young lady who is rather proud of being dubbed an Atlantan.

Giovanni Martinelli, one of the greatest tenors of all time and an Atlanta favorite second only to Ponselle—if second to any singer—who is

Opera 'Jewels of the Madonna' A Tremendous Spectacle

The prophecy that Wolfe-Ferrari's "thriller," "Jewels of the Madonna," would be one of the most popular additions to the repertoire of the Metropolitan Opera company was fulfilled with the first performance, according to leading musical publications.

"Jewels of the Madonna" is to be presented in Atlanta Thursday afternoon of opera week, featuring among others, Basola, Martinelli and Florence Easton. Grouped around these will be such other shining lights as Telva, Bada, Ananias, a colorful and spirited ballet with the celebrated Gennaro Papi wielding the baton.

"Jewels of the Madonna" is really a tremendous spectacle. It includes a stage hand, a tremendous chorus, and it utilizes special scenery from Italy. It is crowded with animation and color and "a detail," says Musical America, "was the use of a young woman, not a statue, to represent the Virgin in the first act procession."

"Jewels of the Madonna" abounds in melody. Some of it, as the little mandolin serenade of Rafaele, and various snatches of tune in the opening of the first act, is of comic opera merit. From the standpoint of orchestration, there is much that is sensuously rich. There is an abundance of the Neapolitan folk element. Tinkling mandolins add to the sentimentality of the strings.

The audience with her special fantastic toe dance.

"Time, Tuckles and Taps," by William Burns and Jimmy Burchill, popular comedians, proved to be very entertaining. The audience was kept in a continuous uproar throughout the number and the duo was recalled several times by encores.

The acrobatic act presented by Clifford and Grey, "Hurricane Hoop Jugglers," was different from the usual run of numbers of this variety and was spectacular and pleasing.

Robert Gehan and Marjorie Garretson introduced the "new subdued jazz" in their act, "Classical Syncopation." A Pathe News Reel and an Aesop Fable complete the bill.

Women Make Higher Record at Georgia Than Men Students

Athens, Ga., April 15.—(Special.) Women students at the University of Georgia had a higher average for the first session than men students, and students living in dormitories have higher averages than those living in private homes, sorority and fraternity houses, figures just compiled by Dean R. P. Stephens indicate.

Of the fraternities for men at the university, Tau Epsilon Phi led with the highest average of 84.70. Of the fraternities for women, Phi Mu led with 83.52.

Women students had an average of 82.95, while the average for men was 78.36. Students living in dormitories had an average of 81.46, those living in private homes an average of 78.96 and those living in fraternity and sorority houses an average of 76.81.

DEATH OF STRIPLIN DEPLORED BY BOARD

Resolutions deploring the recent death of Russell M. Striplin, secretary of the Southeastern Fair association for the past 10 years, were unanimously adopted by members of the board of education at a recent meeting. It was pointed out, that while Mr. Striplin was not a teacher in the strict sense of the word, he was one of the foremost educators in the state.

How Her Thin Weak Boy Grew Strong And Took On Weight

My boy was run down—just about skin and bones, and no appetite, writes Mrs. Baker of Boston.

"I am writing you in the hopes that other Mothers will read this voluntary testimonial regarding McVoy's God Liver Oil Tablets. My boy, Emanuel, was run down completely, just about skin and bones; also irritable and with no appetite.

"I noted a wonderful improvement in him while taking your tablets and purchased three more boxes. His appetite picked up, and he is now sturdy and strong. A cheerful youngster and a happy mother want to thank you.

"You may print this at any time or anywhere you wish.
"MRS. ALBERT E. BAKER,
"33 Ridgewood St., Boston, Mass."

As a body builder, an appetite creator, and to make weak, skinny boys and girls sturdy, strong and full of energy there is nothing like God Liver Oil—any physician will tell you that.

But it's vile, horrible stuff to take, and is apt to upset any stomach, so now doctors are prescribing, and wise parents are buying, McVoy's God Liver Oil Compound Tablets—sugar coated, and as easy to take as candy.

Mothers, if any of your children are weak, thin or puny, give them these tablets, as directed for 30 days, and watch them gain flesh and health from day to day—they seldom fail—but if the unusual should happen and you are not satisfied with results—your druggist is authorized to return your money.

Be sure—always—to get the original and genuine McVoy's God Liver Oil Compound Tablets—60 tablets 60 cents, at Jacobs Pharmacy Co., or any druggist.—(adv.)

Hand-Made Sandals New And Pleasing Shoe Style

Miss Rebecca Ashcraft, popular Atlanta society girl, is here shown wearing hand-made Deauville sandals featured in Atlanta by Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose company.

Art, applied in the designing and making of a shoe, makes it worthy to be worn by southern women of taste and refinement. In these days of mass production it is interesting to find an article carefully designed and made entirely by hand.

The Deauville sandal that Miss Rebecca Ashcraft is pictured wearing, stands in a class of its own, even in this day of fanciful footwear. Designed by a noted Paris artist, made in Prague, Czechoslovakia, and worn by southern women because of its beauty and comfort, the Deauville sandal is unique among shoes.

Its leather thong, braided by hand, give with every movement of the wearer's foot, and yet retain their shape perfectly. The Deauville sandal is delightfully cool—an ideal hot weather shoe. It is designed by P. G. Hestern, and made by the Golo Slipper company at its factories in Vienna and Prague.

It is featured in Atlanta by Chamberlin-Johnson-Dubose company.

For the second time within a week Mrs. L. Frazier, of 25 West Peachtree place, was treated Thursday at Grady hospital after drinking poison in alleged attempt to commit suicide. She was dismissed from the institution the second time after receiving emergency treatment.

It was reported that the bottle of poison was knocked from her hands by a neighbor. No reason was assigned for the acts of the woman by attending physicians.

DISABILITY CLAIM UPHELD BY COURT

An award of damages to an employee for disabilities developing from an injury more than a year after the accident, and after temporary compensation had been paid, was upheld by the state supreme court Thursday.

The decision of the highest court of the state affirmed findings of Fulton superior court and also the damages award made by Commissioner Hal M. Stanley, of the state industrial commission.

C. L. Smith was injured on June 1, 1921, while in the employ of the International Vegetable Oil company by a steam from a burst pipe which burned his neck. Some days later he repaired a broken ammonia pipe and the ammonia fumes entered the unhealed blisters on his neck.

At that time he received an award of $12 a week for nine weeks and, following this award, the United States Casualty company, the insurance carrier, made a private agreement with Smith by which he released them from further liability.

However, more than a year later Smith applied for further compensation, stating that he had lost an arm from blastomycosis, a rare disease generally found only in the Orient, but which was caused by his earlier injuries. Commissioner Stanley awarded him a further $12 a week for 15 weeks. The Fulton superior court upheld the award. The court of appeals reversed the case. On a later hearing the court of appeals reversed itself and the case was carried to the supreme court on certiorari.

EDUCATORS, CARRY ON!

The 61st annual convention of the Georgia Education association is in session at Macon. It was preceded by the annual convention of the county school officials of the state. Both groups are so closely allied that the meetings merge into one great outpouring annually of teachers, superintendents and others directly interested in education in all its branches. Its sessions are always fruitful.

Last year the campaign was actively launched at Macon for equal opportunities in the common schools through a state system of standardization.

The conscience of Georgia has been aroused to this necessity, and the extra session of the legislature, which has just adjourned, laid the foundation.

Much progress has yet to be made, however, as the state must provide a practical economic method for maintaining a standard—that is for the elimination of the short term, and the one-room one-teacher shack in which “teaching” is largely a burlesque.

There are more than half the counties of Georgia in which both of these exist. They exist almost in the shadow of the capitol dome. They will continue until the state arouses itself to the importance of revising and strengthening and broadening its entire educational system.

The county should be made the unit whereby all the schools of a county, whether in the center of a town or city or in a remote rural section, may be placed upon a standard.

Georgia cannot—in this day of educational tests in every worthwhile endeavor—continue indefinitely a school system that denies equal opportunities to all, that penalizes the children of any section, that closes the doors of the finishing schools to thousands who seek and have a right to enter, that builds up, rather than tears down, the walls of caste.

This state can never have a properly coordinated system of education—which is now more than ever essential to the material, the economic, as well as to the social and moral life—until the barriers of prejudice against higher education are torn down, and until the institutions of the university system are held as much a part of the state's educational responsibility to her young as the grammar and high schools.

It is encouraging to find that splendid progress is being made in this respect.

People are embracing the broader vision. Economic situations, modern agriculture, industrial progress, survival of the fittest, social standards, community life—all of these impel a public thought for coordinated education from the first grade of the public school to the finishing year of the normal, or the technological, or the agricultural, or the classical, or the professional courses.

LIGHTS OF NEW YORK

BY PIERRE VAN PAASSEN

New York, April 15.—“It is all very well to live on a ham sandwich and a glass of ginger ale, but you gotta eat if you want to hoof and kick three hours every afternoon and evening,” the leading lady in a Broadway burlesque show tells me.

“Some of these boys think that they do us an undying favor by taking us out and offering a bowl of Irish stew. You don't believe any man would ask a lady to such a meal? Well, I am telling you, and they're supposed to be gay social whippersnappers at that.”

“I had one last week, who is a banker's son. I was awfully sweet to him. But what do you think he wanted? Well, sir, he wanted me to elope with him and go live out west some place on a ranch, yes, sir. Catch me getting into overalls again like I used to have to do on my dad's farm in Ohio. No, sir! I ain't the girl for the jungle with a papoose on my back. No, Yaw! is plenty enough jungle for me.”

The headwaiter at Janssen's Hofbrau tells me that he can tell by a woman's clothes what kind of food she is going to order. “One of them heavyweights with goshes and slouch hats don't want any caviare,” he says. “She wants roast chicken with plenty of sauce. Take a real Broadway dolly with goo-goo eyes and a tight skirt, them's our best customers. They make the boys fork out. We had one in here last night, who insisted on having quails stewed with grapes. We had a heluva time getting the order, but we managed all right. And it made an $18 item on the $47 bill for the young fellow who was her escort.”

Married men somehow believe in the

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LIFE IS SERIOUS ENOUGH.
By the bye, and a dash of ginger, when you try to guess which of the twenty odd respiratory infections that assail you are the cause of your cold, you meet with introduction to, life seems a serious business even if you never get your feet wet and always wear your heavy moccasins when the weather is at all cloudy.

Even at the worst, were it not so very serious, I should be the last to raise a voice or a hand against the professional creep hangars, gloom dispensers, worry merchants, fear makers, the mossback, long eared, science proof health authorities who still tell credulous folk that one can take cold from exposure. I say I should be reluctant to throw anything at these health authorities, for we are all under the thumb of the quack who is the most successful of all peddlers of his pestilential trade with all its dignity and respectability of a quack in the embryo corner. I say I should be the last to tell of eggs of old the Sherraton period.

I yearn for such heiloms when even find a child stricken with what the old folks have taught the credulous folk to call “children's diseases.” And when a child succumbs to such a fever or suffers some mutilation from it, I wish the eggs were dinosaur and I had a catapult to handle them with.

It is sad enough to contemplate the risk of dangers of being alive nowadays, without throwing in any superstitious devils, witches and jinxes and other benighted notions from pillar to post, or from tree to tree, but we're pretty well out of the jungle now and it is fairly safe to discard the charms, superstitions and phobias we used to believe in. We believe in evolution or insist we are right where we were 5,000 years ago.

Five thousand years ago Hippocrates, father of medicine, believed and taught that cold produced a “concoction of humors” in the chest. That doesn't mean anything to us today, but it is at least as sensible an idea as the one which underlies the common fancy that cold produces congestion in the chest. People who have a superficial understanding of the circulation, and doctors who ignore physiology as an unprofitable study know that cold does produce such congestion, although it is not the congestion of Hippocrates.

A doctor from the health department of Hickville on the Hudson, speaking before a convention of heating and ventilation engineers, said that the National Delphian society at Hickville's hotels said it was surprising how little pneumonia there was, considering the recklessness of the flappers in their slippers and sheer stockings in the coldest weather. He cheered the hearts of the heating men by adding that these reckless flappers “should at least live in homes which have the even temperature of a refrigerator.”

The body of the woman, who daily laughs at hazards that thrill thousands, was extricated from the machine after the husband crawled to safety. She was taken to Grady hospital suffering from probable fracture of the skull and other injuries. “Speedy” bursts were of no consequence, according to reports.

The pair was riding on the outer rim of the motorcade while a throng looked on, when there was a halt in safety. She was taken to Grady hospital suffering from probable fracture of the skull and other injuries. “Speedy” bursts were of no consequence, according to reports.

LABOR IS DISCUSSED

AT CIVIC CLUB LUNCHEON

Walter O. Foote, president of Foote and Davies company and former president of the United Typothetae of America, was principal speaker at the regular luncheon of the City club Thursday at the Piedmont hotel.

Mr. Foote spoke on “Union Labor and the Open Shop.” He pointed out the position union labor holds in the commercial world, and the position of the open shop in the commercial world. “There is a place in the world for both union and non-union labor,” said Mr. Foote. “The union laborer is a worker of his own accord. Organized labor has served to better working conditions throughout the country and of special service to keep organized labor from having complete control. Both are prospering but should always co-operate in the development of the commercial world.”

Joel Hunter, president of the City club, reported unusual progress by members of a committee appointed to look into the voting situation in Atlanta. It was pointed out that of the 50,000 eligible voters, only about 10,000 persons ever vote. In the last election, it was shown, only one out of every 14 persons in the city voted.

Mr. Hunter stated that it was the duty of every citizen to vote, and to show enough interest in civic affairs of the city to cast a vote. It was stated that members of the committee are going to keep at work on the situation and seek to arouse more voting interest.

Five thousand years ago Hippocrates, father of medicine, believed and taught that cold produced a “concoction of humors” in the chest. That doesn't mean anything to us today, but it is at least as sensible an idea as the one which underlies the common fancy that cold produces congestion in the chest. People who have a superficial understanding of the circulation, and doctors who ignore physiology as an unprofitable study know that cold does produce such congestion, although it is not the congestion of Hippocrates.

A doctor from the health department of Hickville on the Hudson, speaking before a convention of heating and ventilation engineers, said that the National Delphian society at Hickville's hotels said it was surprising how little pneumonia there was, considering the recklessness of the flappers in their slippers and sheer stockings in the coldest weather. He cheered the hearts of the heating men by adding that these reckless flappers “should at least live in homes which have the even temperature of a refrigerator.”

The body of the woman, who daily laughs at hazards that thrill thousands, was extricated from the machine after the husband crawled to safety. She was taken to Grady hospital suffering from probable fracture of the skull and other injuries. “Speedy” bursts were of no consequence, according to reports.

FLOOR TREATMENT

IS IMPORTANT ITEM

“In planning the decoration of a room, the question of the floor treatment is frequently left to the last. This method often results in an unbalanced appearance,” according to an article in a recent issue of House and Garden, which goes on to say: “If the floor had been considered at the same time as the rest of the furniture, a restful, pleasing interior would be the result. As there are almost as many types of floor coverings, these days, as there are kinds of rooms, this section of an interior should be as carefully thought out as the curtains, wall coverings and furniture.”

“Designed primarily for sun porches and breakfast rooms is a new inlaid linoleum, made to resemble embossed handcraft tiles. The patterns in this decorative type of flooring do not repeat regularly, figured tiles being spotted among plain tiles at regular intervals, with the mortar joints between each tile slightly depressed so as to catch the light. Many of the patterns are carried out in brilliant colors—such hues, for instance, as rich, deep red, green, light brown and a clear, medium blue. The use of two or more shades in each pattern results in a soft, uneven appearance so desirable in a tile flooring of this kind. In addition to sun porches and breakfast rooms, this tile linoleum is adaptable to dining rooms in houses done in the Spanish or Italian manner.”

effect, which we confidently believe will enable us to wipe out the beer traffic this season.

"It is my task to enforce the law and to that end I am giving my sole attention," Andrews stated.

Wets Close Case.
Wets closed their case before the senate judiciary subcommittee Thursday, and will take the stand Friday.
Mary Gordon, New Jersey wet democrat, and several other wet members of congress, helped at the finish with vigorous attacks on the Volstead act.

Dry's probably will open with Clarence True Wilson, secretary of the Methodist Episcopal board of temperance, prohibition and morals, and Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, New York president of the Federal Council of Churches. Dry's put a squad of women delegated to the law enforcement conference on the stand last Monday, but their real evidence will be presented beginning Friday.

Demand Resignation.
Dry's vociferously demanded the resignation of Andrews although the Anti-Saloon league made no official statement pending a study of the explanation issued Thursday by Andrews.

"General Lincoln C. Andrews should resign or else more satisfactorily explain his statement to the senate judiciary subcommittee, that the legal sale of beer would assist in prohibition enforcement," said William M.
Forgrave, state superintendent of the state of Massachusetts Anti-Saloon league, who is also a member of the national executive committee of the Anti-Saloon League of America. This was issued before Andrews made his explanation.

"Officials like General Andrews and District Attorney Buckner should do more work and less talking, especially of the kind that encourages lawlessness. It is not the duty of a federal enforcement official to amend the law or to make rash statements that make his job harder. It is his duty to enforce the law as it is, leaving the people to do the talking at the ballot boxes, as they did two days ago in Illinois, when every candidate of the majority party endorsed by the association against the prohibition amendment met defeat, and 100 per cent victory was registered by the drys in the primaries of the majority party."

History Quoted.
"History tells us, in every state where beer was legalized it did not aid but rather hurt enforcement of state prohibition."

Mrs. Clara Wood Derr, of Cleveland, member of the Ohio house of representatives and a delegate to the woman's law enforcement conference here, said:
"Dry law enforcement nationally and locally should be placed in the hands of men who are dry themselves.
The friends of the 18th amendment should be given a chance to enforce it."

Mrs. Elizabeth Tilton, of Massachusetts, also a delegate to the conference, declared:
"General Andrews, if correctly reported in the press as in favor of depressing lawlessness by legalizing beer with an alcoholic content, certainly shows himself to be inexperienced in liquor law enforcement to be an efficient administrator of prohibition."

Prohibition Director Jones supported his superior, Andrews, in the view that legalizing beer would facilitate dry enforcement. He did foresee certain disadvantages, however, fearing that it would interfere with current prosperity which he said has been due in part to the turning of money that once went for liquor to purchase of clothing and home comforts.

The return of liquor would have a depressing effect on business," Jones said. Only brewers and distillers would prosper should the prohibition law be repealed or amended. School teachers in every city report that pupils now are better fed and better clad than before prohibition.

Williams' condition. He freely told the court how he had called Captain Cates and others before him and roundly upbraided them for their hesitant narratives of what they had seen at the Hotel Del Coronado.

"Tell the truth,"
"I told them they were a lot of boys running around in circles," he declared. "I said to them: 'Go out now and tell the truth, or you'll get into trouble, too.'"

Asked by Admiral Washington if he had "used duress" in obtaining the second revised batch of statements from his subordinates, the general shot back:
"None whatsoever. I wanted no lies from them. I wanted the truth, and I meant to get it."

At one point in his testimony, General Butler seemed on the verge of blurted out something as yet unsuspected by those attending the court-martial.

"There is in my possession," he said,
"certain knowledge, and I believe it is now proper that I should inform the court."

Extra Session of Georgia Legislature Is Adjourned Sine Die; Members Depart

Bill Aimed to Bring Prompt Payment For School Teachers Passed In Both Houses.

The extra session of 1926 of the Georgia legislature adjourned sine die
Thursday at 1 o'clock Thursday night the majority of the members of both houses had gone home.

The only measure of primary importance passed Thursday was the constitutional amendment bill to increase the governor's borrowing power by $3,500,000 for prompt payment of teachers' salaries. The senate passed the bill Thursday. It was introduced by Representative Stark, of Whitfield, and passed the house Tuesday.

Just prior to adjournment, the legislature was adjourned sine die, Speaker W. Cecil Neill made a statement to the house in which he thanked the membership for their cooperation in his arduous duties as presiding officer.

Governor Notified.
The senate and house had appointed a joint committee to notify the governor they were ready to adjourn.
Governor Walker had accepted this announcement, thanking the members for their efforts for the good of the state and declaring that he had no further communication to make.

"Before announcing sine die adjournment," said Speaker Neill, in his address, "permit your presiding officer to state that he deeply appreciates the honor of having been elected and having presided as speaker of this house for the past three terms, including within which were seven sessions, five regular sessions of 60 days each and two extraordinary sessions of 38 and 51 days, respectively, aggregating 339 days, and without one day's absence."

"During this period of service he has endeavored to be fair, just and impartial in enforcing the rules, without fear or favor, and with due regard to the obligations he owed to his God and his state; any failure in this respect were errors of the head and not of the heart."

"Although this office is one of great labor and responsibility, your presiding officer can truly say that he has enjoyed the service; he has spent some of the most pleasant and delicious moments of his life in association with his fellow members."

Critic Out Duties.
"While the membership of this body has been divided in opinion on most important economic questions, your presiding officer accorded and still accords to each member the right to his own opinion, and believes that each of you have registered your votes conscientiously and with proper regard to your oath of office and in carrying out your duty as you saw it to your state."

"The chair wishes to thank each young officers are very greatly embarrassed."

"They have, of course, a very unusual hesitancy to speak, and there is in my possession—"

Secret Is Guarded.
Hesitantly the general proceeded.
"There is in my possession," he said,
"certain knowledge, and I believe it is now proper that I should inform
the court."

Here Admiral Washington interrupted the witness.

"General," he said, "I think the court naturally takes cognizance of these facts so far as you know them."
Just what the general was about to say remained a mystery.

NEILL AND WOOD RUN FOR GOVERNOR

that he expected to address the citizens of every county in Georgia before election day.

Mr. Neill, speaker of the house for the past six years, covering service at seven sessions during which he has never missed a day's attendance, at the close of the extra session issued a formal statement Thursday that he will announce the platform on which he will bid his constituency in a few days, after he has opportunity to rest after strenuous work of the session just adjourned.

In his statement Thursday, Mr.
Neill concludes with the promise that his platform "will give the people of Georgia opportunity to settle for themselves at the ballot box those issues in which they are so vitally interested."

"This was generally construed to refer to the proposal to issue state bonds for road building and education expansion. Speaker Neill was an ardent champion of the bond programs during the session just closed. If the assembly permitted, the bond proposal would have been submitted to the people at the election in November in the form of a constitutional amendment. However, the legislature refused road bonds by vote of 104 to 91. Speaker Neill voted for the road bond proposal, an almost unprecedented action for a presiding officer when the vote is not tied. It is believed that his announcement of Thursday means that he will pitch his candidate squarely on the bond program, thus allowing the people to express their stand on the bond proposal even though the assembly refused it."

Text of Card.
Speaker Neill's statement of Thursday follows:
"To the people of Georgia: I am a candidate for governor, subject to the democratic primary to be held on the second Wednesday in September next."

"During my service for 15 sessions as a representative from my native county of Muscogee, I have always pursued the policy of taking a definite stand on public questions; and as speaker of the house for the past seven sessions, have done my very best to be fair, just and impartial as a presiding officer."

also has been in communication with Tex, and Gene Tunney has signed on the dotted line.

It remains to be done, it would seem, is for Rickard to decide whom he wants to match, and where. This does not mean that Dempsey is going to fight it, as few believe that heavy weight champion has any intention of returning to the ring. It does mean, however, that Paddy Mullins and Harry Wills now realize that Rickard is the man with whom they must do business.

"An important announcement," as they like to say at Madison Square Garden, may be expected from the promoter within a day or two.

Meanwhile, Tex has arranged for another "natural" which will give Mickey Walker his second shot at the middleweight championship. The welter king, who boxes Peter Latzo at Scranton on May 17, has been signed to fight "Tiger" Flowers, of Atlanta, at Yankee stadium next June.

The date has not been definitely set.

Walker made a similar effort to acquire the double tiara last summer when he turned out for Harry Greb. Jack Kearns, who has gone into action, but whose perfume still fills the air of these parts, predicts that Mickey will do much better against the negro. In fact, Kearns went so far as to say:

"Mickey will punch Flowers full of holes."

Walk Miller, the "Tiger" manager, and the middleweight champion are of a different opinion. They are pleased to take the match because it looks like real money.

Rickard is using the Walker-Flowers bout to console himself for the possible loss of the Delaney-Berlebach affair. Tex still is confident that when it comes to a showdown, he of the promoter of city fights, between Paul and Jack, but is taking no chances.

Jack Renault's return as a top-notch fighter will be celebrated at Madison Square Garden May 21, when the French-Canadian will be given a 10-round bout with Jack DeMave, the heavy-hitting blonde heavyweight.

LAST OF FIVE CHAMPS GOING STRONG

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Last of five master craftsmen to defy with undimmed brilliance the tides of time and youth, Walter Johnson presses on to complete a 20-year pitching reign.

He has resumed his place on the firing line within a few days after the passing of Jay Gump as court tennis king and the end of Walter Johnson's 20-year pitching reign.

Gould, Hoppe and Johnson rose to greatness with two other supermen—Frank Kramer, the cyclist, and Ty Cobb, of the mighty willow.

All but Johnson finally have slipped from the pinnacle. Cobb remains in baseball, but he has indicated that his appearances in the lineup this year are to be less frequent than ever.

Gould, who is 38 years old, held his national title for 12 consecutive years, and was defeated by Walter Johnson in 1922 after winning the American cycling title 18 times. Hoppe for 18 years was a billiard champion. Cobb has led Amer-

Lookouts Troublesome.
Durocher Fast Fielder.
An Old-Timer.

WELL, the Crackers got 'er opened, with the able assistance of the Chattanooga Lookouts, who, though not considered generally as a real team, possibly developed a penchant for base hits and good catching combined with impossible fielding, to beat our side in the first game Thursday. The Lookouts, to me, looked like a team which will cause a lot of trouble in the John D. Martin loop.

The change in the baseball playing of Izzy Bandimer, who has moved over from shortstop to second base, was nothing short of startling. He may have been playing over his head Thursday, but he certainly knocked off two of the home athletes who should have been absolutely safe.

LEO DUROCHER had a tough day with a couple of errors which figured in the ball game rather roughly, but that young ball player is one of the surest and fastest fielders playing baseball. He will not commit many of that kind. He hurries the ball away, perhaps a trifle too fast, and he is a bundle of nerves. A little more time with the Atlanta fans will make him the greatest fielding shortstop in the league, and although he is notoriously a light hitter, he has been getting his hitting act together, and he is a real asset to the team.

Thursday which stood the Lookouts on their ears and made the fans gasp when he raced to second and slid in safely after he had dropped a normal single at the feet of Center Fielder Carroll. He was the only Cracker, though, who was able to get away with anything on the base lines.

DOBB RIGGS, an old-time ball player, who cavorted about in the Texas League, the International and spent a brief time in the majors, brought in the information that, although he has a job in the Western league, he was an umpire, he had, after considerable thought and a battle with an ailing stomach, to stick to the more pleasant task of firing a locomotive for the L. & N. railroad.

Riggs was present in Wichita when the Western's umpires were gathered for a confab with President Dale Gear. He witnessed the battle between Young Stribling and Chuck Burns in that city and brought back the news that he thinks Stribling is a still greater boxer than he at first thought. Riggs, in fact, will be in Georgia to develop to such an extent that he will some day be a champion.

Suzanne To Give Helen Return Match

Paris, April 15.—Suzanne Lenglen has begun strenuously to condition herself for two hard tennis campaigns this season, Paris and Wimbledon.

The French girl, who had been practicing at Nice for several days, has come to Paris, where she will stay with Helen Wills' footsteps and work up her game gradually until she is ready for real competition here next month.

Wills announced she has decided definitely to give the American champion a return match in Paris in June. When Miss Lenglen and Miss Suzanne Lenglen, the French star won, 6-1, 8-6.

League batsmen for eight consecutive seasons and 11 times in 12 years.

Pugilism, tennis and golf have failed to produce champions whose careers match these five athletic marvels.

Hollis McLaughlin and Bates in Great Mound Duel—Crackers' Desperate Rally in Ninth Halted by Perfect Throw.

BY H. C. HAMILTON.

In one of the hardest fought baseball games ever witnessed at Spiller park—a game filled with tough breaks for the Crackers and good ones for the Lookouts—Chattanooga Thursday opened the season here with the Southern league champions with a win. The score was 2 to 1. The total paid attendance was 12,748 persons, which falls short by 3,381 of the attendance which last year won the class A cup for this city. Last year 16,099 paid tickets were counted.

The day was dark and gloomy, but the opening day crowd was happy and full of pep. The constant action in the ball game and the entertainment features which had been provided by Dan Michalove, president of the Crackers, kept everyone happy, and to make the climax interesting the Crackers staged a ninth-inning rally which fell short of success only through a phenomenal throw by Izzy Bandrimer, Lookout second-sacker. Bandrimer, by the way, covered himself with glory during the afternoon, pulling a pair of sensational throws which actually saved the game for Red Bates, who pitched a good ball game and deserved to win.

Pitched Grand Ball. Hollis McLaughlin, who started for the Crackers, pitched one of those games—good enough to win almost any time, but not good enough to win with Durocher wavering at a critical time, and with Izzy Bandrimer playing his head off for the visitors.

The Crackers were hitting and taking chances on the base lines—chances

ATLANTA LEADS IN RACE FOR CUP

Atlanta probably has won the Martin cup for opening day baseball attendance again. In spite of the fact that threatening weather kept many hundreds, or possibly thousands, of persons away from Spiller park Thursday, the turnstiles clicked for 12,748 paid admissions, while at Birmingham, the city which was expected to offer the greatest opposition, there were only 11,563 paid admissions.

The general belief is that neither New Orleans nor Memphis will beat the Atlanta figure. Both those cities stage opening parties today.

which ordinarily would have been turned into runs. One after another, however, they were cut down, and counted only one run after Wilbur Good had singled and was driven home by Red Smith.

The contest was tight from start to finish, but it was tighter from the standpoint of the Crackers than from that of the Lookouts. The Lookout infield played airtight baseball, while the Crackers, at times sensationally fast, took two bad jolts from Durocher.

Headed Off Rallies. Two fast double plays, both started by Bert Nichoff, Cracker skipper, headed off what might have been further tallies by the visiting team. Hartford crashed into one with men on first and second, while D. Anderson hit a line drive to Nichoff, which the skipper turned into an easy double play.

Battling along evenly until the sixth inning, the teams left a 0-0 deadlock in that frame and the Lookouts scored a brace of tallies, their total count for the afternoon. To start the parade C. Anderson shot a roller between Red Smith and Durocher. Smith, about to try for the ball, suddenly changed his mind and Durocher fielded it cleanly. He shot the ball lightning fast to Al Nichols, but the throw was high, the ball rolling to the grandstand and Anderson reaching

Cracker Dust

Clouds have to do their stuff to stop Atlanta fans. In spite of the fact that rain threatened from 11 o'clock right on until time for the opening game to be started, nearly 13,000 baseball fans paid their respects to Chattanooga and the Crackers Thursday.

A little sprinkle of rain did fall as the Crackers went to bat in the fifth inning. Slickers and umbrellas blossomed in the open-faced seats, but nothing was wet very much.

Left Fielder Perry, of the Lookouts, got the first hit of the afternoon in the second inning, when he drove the first ball pitched to him to left field for a single. Niehaus, first up for the Crackers in the same inning, duplicated the strat by hitting the first ball to center field.

Hollis McLaughlin got a tough break when a hit was scored for C. Anderson on Durocher's bad throw to first. It later counted against the Crackers as an earned run, whereas another error for Durocher would not have hurt the pitcher's average.

Ralph Fraser started off like he might be all of what John McGraw said he might. He socked the cover off the ball in the ninth inning, and only perfect work cut him down at third base. He was given a rousing ovation when he walked back to the dugout.

There is some respect in this league for the heavy bat wielded by Mule Haas. With two on in the eighth inning, Kid Elberfeld, Lookout manager, ordered him passed. Cavet then pipped to Hartford.

The game was honored by the presence of three umpires. Williams officiated behind the plate, Bill Brenyan was at first base and Clark was at third base. Their work was entirely satisfactory.

The same teams will be at it again today. Ruel Love, new right-hander, probably will go to the firing line for the Crackers.

Bill Bayne showed the fans something when he relieved McLaughlin. The new southpaw toiled two innings and exactly six men faced him.

The opening day was all it should have been. There were two fights in the bleachers and a lot of near-battles. The police quickly interfered.

The traffic jam after the game was over was terrific. For blocks on either side of the entrance to Spiller park automobiles and street cars crept slowly along. The new Glen Iris drive, opening off Ponce de Leon avenue, a few blocks from the park, proved a life-saver, for many automobilists used it.

R. J. Spiller, operator of the swimming pool next to the ball park and operator of the concessions in the field, has provided parking space for 400 automobiles just behind his new pool. Entrance is right by the entrance to the park and the exit leads to Ponce de Leon avenue at the other side of the pool.

MY LIFE IN SPORTS

BY CHARLES HOFF

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and the North American Newspaper Alliance.)

THIRD CHAPTER.

The two months following my first meeting with Kreigsmann I regard as the hardest in my life. He first made me run hurdles. I didn't ask any questions, just did as he told me, blindly, and really believed my coach had decided I was to become a hurdler.

I was not very strong at that time, and hurdling was rather a strain. But even then I had the height for the high hurdles, and the result wasn't too bad. I took part in a junior competition and ran a dead run with the winner.

When I, delighted with the result, came over to Kreigsmann, he only said: "I knew you were that good, but I don't suppose you believe you are going to specialize as hurdler?" I said yes, that was what I had believed, as long as I had thrown away so much time on it.

"I have let you do hurdling only to straighten your leg muscles," he said. "You are going to become a pole-vaulter."

Pole-vaulter? I thought he was joking, because nothing had been farther from my mind than that. It was a thing in which there was no interest at all in Norway. I had never before touched a pole, and I was quite afraid of trying this acrobatic exercise.

Afraid of the Bar.

Well, next summer came, and Kreigsmann started me in on hurdling again, and I hoped he had forgotten about the pole-vaulter. But no, one day when the hurdling didn't go as well as usual and he saw a pole lying around, he told me to try vaulting.

Much against my will I took the pole and jumped, without any bar, less than I was able to, to get him away from the idea of making me become a pole-vaulter.

Probably he saw that I had the natural ability to do it, because he never gave me any advice after that. I had to train at pole-vaulting two hours a day, and even though I was very much afraid of the bar, after an accident I had had some time before that in a high jump, I was able to do 10 feet after two weeks' training.

Kreigsmann was delighted, and told me that after seven months of training I should be in form to beat the world record of Frank Foss, 13 feet 5 inches.

I did not believe in it because I did not feel that I was strong enough, but Kreigsmann said it was not the arm-strength which made a pole-vaulter, but the technique, more than in any other exercise, and he had discovered the right technique with the help of his anatomical knowledge. The only difficulty was to make me understand this technique, to understand why the one which he wanted to teach me was the only correct one.

It was not hard with what I had learned in school about gravitation, pendulum movement, etc. I transferred to pole-vaulting, and up toward the stars I went!

The Norwegian record, 11 feet 3, was soon beaten, and two months later the Scandinavian record of 12 feet 11. It happened as Kreigsmann had predicted. Next year, in 1922, after seven months of training as a pole-vaulter I made my first world record, 13 feet 6.

Rewarded With Theater. But you must not believe it was easy work to make this record; I trained more on the pole-vault in these seven months than any American has done in three years. I trained so hard that even Kreigsmann thought I might hurt myself in some way or another. I had now conquered my fear of the

Macon Defeats Columbus, 6 to 2

Macon, Ga., April 15.—(AP)—The Macon Peaches defeated Columbus of the new Southeastern league in an exhibition game here this afternoon, 6 to 2. Neither side scored until the fifth inning, when Macon found Monday's offense and chalked up four bingles. Previous to that it began to look like a pitcher's battle.

Benning Lacrosse Team Meets Tech

Georgia Tech will entertain the Fort Benning soldiers this afternoon and Saturday in the first lacrosse games of the year at Grant field.

Tech, under the tutelage of Dr. Crenshaw, former Johns Hopkins star, and Walt Godwin, of last year's team, has developed a sweet-looking team, and should cause the Benning outfit plenty of trouble. Games with Georgia are on the schedule later in the season.

This afternoon's game will start at 4 o'clock, and admission will be 50 cents.

Tech lineup—Atkinson, goal; Hood, point; Derrick, first defense; Tharpe, cover point; Diamond, second defense; Irwin, third defense; Getzen, center; Barron, third attack; Waters, second attack; Bickertstaff, first attack; Riley, out home, and Sturges, in home.

Substitutes who probably will get into the fray include Govan, Bicknell, Thrash, McDaniel, Van Weller and Eager.

The Benning lineup will include several former West Point stars.

Willard McBennie, of Atlanta, old player of Stephens institute, New York, will referee.

Alabama Battles Tech 7 lossers to 8-to-8 Deadlock

Reeves' Errors Pave Way for 'Bama Runs; Tie Score in Ninth

Crimson, Badly Outthit, Rally Gamely—Crowley Leads Tech Attack—Teams Meet Again Today on Montgomery Field.

BY CARTER BARRON.

Bobby Reeves, who captains the Yellow Jacketed baseballers of Georgia Tech, Wednesday unleashed an outburst of long-distance clouting that returned a decision for his team over the University of Alabama. Tech's leader continued his slugging ways on Thursday, but more than offset his trio of bingles with five miserable errors, and thereby kicked a ball game away.

Tech didn't lose, but Reeves' misadventures permitted Alabama to score enough runs to tie the count at 8-8, and there it stood when darkness halted proceedings after ten innings of play.

Johnny Conn, ace of the Jackets' mound corps, ably assisted by Florio, turned in a neatly pitched ball game, and deserved to win, but Reeves' errors, all of which came at critical times, decided otherwise.

In Montgomery today. The two teams will resume their series in Montgomery today and tomorrow, with Claiborne, Florio, or Gaston scheduled to ascend the mound for the locals today, and "Big Bill" Edwards due to draw the assignment Saturday.

Tech started away well Thursday, cutting twice in the first frame when Moreland singled and completed the circuit when Angley poked a homer. The Crimson knotted things in the third. Rosenfeld and Barnes singled and Reeves' error on Connister's grounder let Rosenfeld score and Barnes reach third, from where he scored on Pepper's sacrifice fly. Tech again took the lead in their half of the same frame. Wilder and Moreland singled and after Wilder was picked off second, Moreland counted on Reeves' triple to the right field fence.

Crimson Takes Lead. Alabama went ahead for the first time in the fourth. Crew singled and Reeves muffed up Tubbs' grounder. On Winslet's roller, Reeves again slipped up, throwing the ball away and permitting Crew to count and Tubbs to reach third. Tubbs crossed the plate on Rosenfeld's long fly.

In Tech's half of the fourth, a walk to Winslet, Crew's double, and Conn's single accounted for a pair of tallies.

That was all until the seventh when Tech grabbed three runs that should have sewed things up. Reeves got a life on Vincent's error. Then, in quick succession, came a triple off Angley's bat, a double by Wyoff and Crowley's third hit of the matinee.

Alabama picked up an apparently useless run in the eighth. Pepper was hit by a pitched ball and reached third on Sewell's double. Conn set third down and forced Vincent and Crews to pop to the infield, but Pepper counted when Reeves booted a grounder by Fairley, who batted for Tubbs.

Ninth Disastrous. The Alabama 1 of the ninth was reminiscent of that day last October. Rosenfeld singled, Connister doubled and Reeves picked this spot's eighth. In the fifth frame, throwing Pepper's grounder away, Rosenfeld and Connister scored and Pepper reaching; third. Hutto, batting for Vincent, tripled, and Pepper scored with the tying run.

Neither team threatened seriously in the tenth, and it was all over until today.

Tech banged out 17 hits to 9 for the visitors. Crowley collected four hits, Moreland and Reeves three each, and Angley and Winslet each got two. Rosenfeld was the only 'Bama hitter second. Anderson was given a hit, but the throw easily might have been called an error. Bigelow cracked out a double immediately following, and Anderson rode home. Bigelow went to third when Durocher messed up. Catcher Anderson attempted to catch a single to left.

Crackers Score in Eighth. The Crackers' got their lone tally in the eighth, spending three hits to get their men around the bases. Sumpter Clarke led off with a hit through the infield. Niehoff struck out, but Wilbur Good hit a single, sending Clarke to second. On Niehaus' grounder, Bogart tagged Clarke as he went into third, leaving Good on second and Niehaus on first. Catcher Anderson attempted to catch Clarke off first, and as he threw Good dashed for third, beating the throw by an eye-bash and having some difficulty with Bogart over whether he could be pushed around. Red Smith got his only hit of the afternoon—a double—sending Uncle Wilbur home. Hays drew a base on balls, but Puz Cavet, sent in to hit for Durocher, hit an easy pop fly which Hartford smothered.

The ninth inning was a thriller—filled with good baseball, but mainly by the Lookouts. Brock was first man up and he hit a fly to Perry in left field. Ralph Fraser, making his debut in an Atlanta uniform as a pinch hitter for Bayne, cracked a long drive to the embankment in right field. Bigelow was after the ball like a hawk. Picking it up he hustled straight to Bandrimmer, who had raced into short right field, and Little Izzy turned to make a perfect throw to Bogart at third base, where Fraser was heading. The ball was waiting for him as he went into the bag standing up. To make the home crowd groan even a little more Clarke followed immediately with a long single to left center which would have scored Fraser easily. The play by the Chat-

Crackers were fighting at every stage of the game. Several chances to score were lost. To show what breaks were playing against the Crackers, the champions had 10 men left on bases.

In the fourth inning Mule Hays hit one a mile a minute toward right field, but Anderson knocked it down. It was so hard hit that he could not hold it, but had to pick up the ball and toss to Bates to get the hitter at first. In the second inning Niehaus singled, and on the hit and run play Bates tossed such a bad ball to Smith that the latter was forced to duck it. Niehaus was thrown out by several feet as a result.

tanoga team was perfect, and it had to be. Fraser's hit was a legitimate triple in any ball game.

Another Deadly Throw.

Bandrimmer pulled the same sort of perfect, deadly pegging on Bert Niehoff in the third inning. The Cracker boss was on first base after he had walked. Wilbur Good shot a hot drive down the first base line, toward C. Anderson, the first baseman, toward the extent that the ball rolled a little way into right field and stopped.

It looked like an easy matter for Niehoff to make third, but Bandrimmer raced over from second, picked up the ball and, wheeling, shot to third base and Niehoff was tagged out by Bogart. The play was no less heart-breaking than the one in the first inning, and it was the third out in the inning. It not only knocked the run off third which might have won the ball game, but it also took Wilbur Good off first. With heavy hitters coming up the entire tenor of the fracas might have been changed.

Major Starts Game.

The game was started when Bonnie Rowe, parachute jumper, leaped from an A. B. Mcullen company airplane piloted by Beeler Blevins. He landed on second base with the first ball to be pitched, but he missed it by a matter of several hundred feet, landing just shy of the right field corner of the grandstand, outside the park. He didn't miss several charged electric wires and other dangerous whatnots. As a matter of fact he was struck by the hot inter squall in the face as he dropped. He made it safely, however, and walked onto the diamond to hand the first ball to Mayor Walter A. Sims in the pitcher's box.

The mayor turned out to be no great shakes as a leaver. He fired five times to Johnny Brock, getting the ball over the plate once and failing to throw as far as Brock on another occasion.

Photographers began running about the field with movie and still cameras. The crowd cheered the Crackers as they went to the field, a five-piece band tried to make itself heard in the boxes back of the plate, and the game was on. The crowd was liberal with its praise. Every Cracker was given a rousing reception as he stepped to the plate, but the main blast was touched off by Bert Niehoff and Hollis McLaughlin.

Bad Breaks.

There was plenty to cheer for, the Crackers were fighting at every stage of the game. Several chances to score were lost. To show what breaks were playing against the Crackers, the champions had 10 men left on bases.

In the fourth inning Mule Hays hit one a mile a minute toward right field, but Anderson knocked it down. It was so hard hit that he could not hold it, but had to pick up the ball and toss to Bates to get the hitter at first. In the second inning Niehaus singled, and on the hit and run play Bates tossed such a bad ball to Smith that the latter was forced to duck it. Niehaus was thrown out by several feet as a result.

HUFFMAN BOUT TECH RUNNERS TO TELL FATE MEET AUBURN OF CARPENTIER ON SATURDAY

Kansas City, April 15.—(AP)—

Whether "Young" Stribling, Georgia light-heavyweight, will meet Georges Carpentier, depends upon the outcome of Carpentier's fight with "Sailor" Huffman at New York on May 21, "Pa" Stribling, the youth's manager, said here today. If Huffman defeats Carpentier, the elder Stribling considers the match would not be worthwhile. Stribling already has beaten Huffman.

Although he has been negotiating with Floyd Fitzsimmons, promoter, Jack Curley, former wrestling promoter, recently wired him from New York. "Pa" said, that he alone was Carpentier's representative.

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 15.—

(Special)—Joan LaCosta, 21-year-old girl speed marvel who has created a sensation on Florida race tracks this winter, leaped to safety on the beach house this afternoon when her huge Wisconsin special caught fire in a speed trial.

Miss LaCosta had been tuning up for a dash to break the speed record held by Sig Haugstad and had her machine running over 120 miles an hour when it caught fire. She succeeded in slowing down to 30 miles an hour before flames licking toward the gas tank compelled her to jump. She escaped with minor bruises and stated tonight that she would make another attempt as soon as the damaged parts of the car are replaced.

Spectacular Array of Fights Booked for Summer

Berlenbach-Delaney, Flowers-Greb Bouts Will Be Headliners

Champions of All Classes Booked For Greatest Outdoor Program Since 1923—Strub on Trail of "Punching Paul."

New York, April 15.—Whether or not heavyweight activity is revived this summer by Jack Dempsey's proposed defense of his title against Gene Tunney, the outdoor boxing campaign centering about the metropolitan area promises to be the most spectacular since 1923. That was the brilliant year culminating in the historic Dempsey-Firpo struggle.

The "ballyhoo" for an affair between Dempsey and Tunney has been on for some time with its consequent advertising of the challenge of the ex-stereoid, Harry Wills. The bout, ring observers believe, will take place August "somewhere in the metropolitan district."

The prospect of exciting activity is held forth in nearly every other fight class with the light heavyweights, the 175-pounders, particularly in the line-light. Paul Berlenbach, the present king of that division, has the formidable Jack Delaney as his outstanding rival and their third encounter is expected to "pack 'em in." Delaney has disposed of one persistent challenger by knocking out Mike McGuire, but Young Strubling, the Georgia "strong boy," also is on Berlenbach's trail.

Flowers-Greb Bout.
Tiger Flowers, dusky holder of the middleweight crown, has promised a return match to the former champion, Harry Greb, who is confident he can regain the title. Delaney already has knocked out Flowers twice and if he cared to make the 160-pound limit again would be favored to dethrone the Georgia negro. Jimmy Slattery, of Buffalo, intends to fight in middleweight ranks henceforth, following disaster against heavier men, and may yet stage a comeback.

Mickey Walker, the welterweight champion, abroad, is expected to defend his title against Pete Latzo at Scranton, Pa., May 17, in addition to which the rugged Jerseyman has prospective opponents in Joe Dundee, of Baltimore; Willie Harmon, of New York; and Jack Zivic, of Pittsburgh. He will make a bid for Flowers' middleweight crown in June.

Rocky Kanawha, Buffalo veteran, is likely to stake his lightweight title against either Sid Terris, of New York, or Sammy Mandell, of Rockford, Ill., in a championship match here during the outdoor season. Tod Morgan, of Seattle, the junior or 130-pound champion, is matched to fight Joe Glick for the title and many experts expect the crown to change hands when they clash.

Charley (Phil) Rosenberg, bantam titleholder, has a corps of challengers on this trail, led by Bussey Graham, of Utica, N. Y., while Fidel LaBarba, the young Los Angeles holder of the flyweight championship, is expected to engage in an active campaign. Bidding will be keen for all of these prospective title fights in the metropolitan area with promoters of eight arenas, including Madison Square Garden and the three major league ball parks, in the market.

Red Grange Thrown For a $750 Loss

Chicago, April 15.—(AP)—Harold "Red" Grange was thrown for a loss today when he settled with his former Wheaton neighbor, Archie H. Schatz, otherwise known as Johnny Small, a vaudeville actor, for $750. The settlement was made out of court. Schatz said the football hero on claims that he first saw the possibilities in Grange and signed as his first manager last August. Grange subsequently selected C. C. Pyle.

Defeated Boxer Wins Decision

New York, April 15.—An unusual incident occurred recently during bouts at the 102nd Medical Regiment armory in New York, when a boxer who had knocked his opponent down four times in 1 1/2 rounds and was winning easily saw a towel come flung in from his own corner and heard the referee award the fight to his exhausted opponent, who was on one knee at the time.

It happened this way: Roy McMahon, Fort Jay welterweight, was battering George Rafferty, of the 24th coast artillery so badly that two medical officers present decided the bout should be stopped.

"T! 3 and throw in the towel," said one doctor.

He made his way to McMahon's corner by mistake, seized a towel and tossed it to the ring before the seconds could stop him.

The crowd hooted and the officers attempted to have McMahon awarded the decision, but Referee George Heppner declared he had no choice but to give the fight to Rafferty on a technical knockout.

STORM MARS ROEHAMPTON GOLF TOURNEY

Rochampton, England, April 15.—(AP)—Playing under unfavorable conditions, with sheets of rain and strong winds and many of the fairways and greens flooded, Abe Mitchell, George Duncan, W. B. Smith and W. Robertson came through today's rounds of the Roehampton Golf club's annual invitation tournament for a purse of 200 pounds and tomorrow will fight for the season's first professional prize.

Mitchell will contend against Smith and Duncan will oppose Robertson in the semi-finals.

It was a great day for Abe Mitchell. He eliminated James Ockenden and Hangerhill, 3 and 1, and then took the measure of Archibald Compston, 4 and 3. The last match which Compston played before his American tour was against Mitchell. He got a drubbing then, but returned home this week and rushed from the liner to Roehampton anxious for revenge. But he fell once more before the great golfing master, whose long-distance driving and splendid control and putting, except for one brief interval, far surpassed Compston's game. Mitchell and Compston took virtually all the spectators with them, and, despite the pouring rain, they stayed to watch Mitchell beat his man.

It was a popular victory for Compston returned to England with just a trace of American accent and some additions to his vocabulary from the American language. But he did not acquire any American hustle, for he was defeated through the morning round.

Stars Suspension Hurts '26 Team

Iowa City, Iowa, April 15.—(AP)—The 1926 University of Iowa football team was dealt a "severe blow" by the indefinite suspension of "Cowboy" Nick Kutsch, in the opinion of Coach Burton Ingwersen.

This was the only comment forthcoming from the Iowa mentor who was depending upon Kutsch to carry the brunt of the attack in the coming gridiron campaign. The "Cowboy" was the only remaining regular in the old Grid backfield.

Kutsch was indefinitely suspended for violation of a probationary suspension, which was imposed, according to rumors on the campus, because of his participation in several parties at which liquor was available.

shots, Big George Gadd, the Roehampton club's professional, got wetter and wetter and more and more irritated, and ultimately lost 5 and 4.

J. H. Taylor's age and experience at 55 triumphed over the young, ex-champion, Arthur Havers, 3 and 2, but the veteran Harry Vardon, although he donned rubber plus fours, could not weather both the storm and Jack Smith's driving.

Aubrey Boomer, the only foreigner to get into the qualifying 16 yesterday, battled valiantly for a place in the semi-finals, but he lost to George Duncan on the last green.

The Frenchman sank an eight-yard putt for a three at the first hole, with a trace of American accent and some additions to his vocabulary from the American language. But he did not acquire any American hustle, for he was defeated through the morning round.

Rain and Snow Plays Havoc With Games In Major Leagues

Four of the Eight Games Scheduled Postponed On Account of Bad Weather—St. Louis Hurler Shuts Out Pirates.

Cold and snow played havoc with both major league schedules Thursday and crippled attendance and hampered the players where games were played. A single exception was the brilliant performance turned in at St. Louis by Howard Keen, the former Cub twirler, who pitched the Cardinals to a shut-out victory over the Pirates, 2 to 0.

Elsewhere the games were free-hitting affairs, with errors frequent as balls bounced from hands that were blue with cold.

Games at New York, Cincinnati, Boston and Detroit were postponed because of the icy blasts and occasional snow flurries.

The Philadelphia Athletics, who had been trying to play baseball without their batting eyes, finally found those necessary optics and proceeded to slaughter the Senators, 9 to 3. Joe Bush, Alec Ferguson and "Curly" Ogden were touched for 12 hits, and Washington contributed five errors to help the visitors along.

The White Sox blew themselves to eight runs in the first inning of their game with the Browns, driving Tom Zachary, the former Senator, to the showers before the announcer had finished informing the handful of fans in the bleachers who was pitching. Bolen stemmed the tide, but Teddy Blankenship had the visitors safely in hand, and the Sox won, 11 to 4, and now are all alone out in front in the American league race.

The amazing Phillies continued to lie catcher.

trample over the helpless Braves from Boston, making it three straight with an 8-to-4 victory. Fifteen hits were garnered by Fletcher's Surprises, including home runs by Leach and Cy Williams.

With the score tied at 4-all in the last of the ninth, Cy went in as a pinch-hitter with the bases full. He knocked one over the fence, his second home run in as many days. Benton, who had relieved Morgridge in the ninth, was the victim.

The Pittsburgh Pirates were unable to solve Howard Keen's delivery, while the Cards found "Red" Morrison for just enough hits to win, being assisted by three Pittsburgh errors.

The first serious accident of the 1926 season occurred at Philadelphia, where Harry Recondo, Boston third baseman, who was obtained by the Braves from the Athletics, fractured his leg trying to score in the eighth inning. He slid into the plate and was blocked by Jimmy Wilson, the Philadelphia Phillies continued to lie catcher.

Allentown, Pa., April 15.—(United News)—Charles Garland, eccentric millionaire and love-cult leader, will serve 90 days in jail and pay $500 fine for his illicit love affair with Bettina Hovey, one of his "soul mates" at April Farm near Coopersburg.

Garland, whose first "back-to-nature" escapade was staged on Cape Cod, Mass., and who founded the Love farm here, pleaded non vult Thursday to statutory charges.

The millionaire had admitted that unmarried couples lived on his estate and the charges against him grew out of the burial without a death certificate of a child born to him and Miss Hovey.

Sensational testimony expected at his trial here was blocked when he pleaded non vult.

Beautiful New York Girl Visitor to the Walter Hills For Grand Opera Week

BY BEVERLY BURGESS.

Last night the brilliance of the audience at the big Junior League show at the Atlanta theater was intensified by the presence of the "Fifty Club" boys with their wives, sweethearts and friends.

Of course you know that the "Fifty Club" personnel stands for about the same element in the social world that the Junior League does, with a very wide difference in purpose of organization.

In other words, the league girls have a very worthy purpose of organization, while the "Fifty" boys—have also! The nearest we can come to putting our finger on the noble motives, however, which serve as inspiration of said boys carrying such weighty matters in the business world on their shoulders, is that of utter RELAXATION!

Many of these same burdened gentlemen are Junior League husbands and seemingly are well content with the laurels in the world of philanthropy which their indefatigable spouses win yearly.

Have you ever seen these two organizations in concerted action? Then you still have something great to live for!

Perfect foils are they for each other, with always a delightful spirit of rivalry playing between.

Last night the "Fifty Club" was the only sponsor of the performance at the theater and a delightful evening was spent. The happy young dancers pranced their very prettiest for these appreciative guests.

Beautiful New Yorker.

A charming visitor to Atlanta for opera is Miss Mildred Wedekind, the guest of the Walter Hills, on Peachtree circle.

A rarely beautiful girl is this visitor who has many Atlanta friends made at Miss Semple's in New York. For are confined to high school young people, mercy no! The older college boys and girls are just as eager for these much coveted bids as it is possible to be.

And not one jot nor one tittle are these affairs in the hands of the boys behind in elegance of detail and dignity of occasion the fraternity dances of the college men!

On next Friday night at the Druid Hills Golf club the K. D. K.'s (Kappa Delta Kappa)—if you aren't initiated—are going to have their annual formal dance.

This will be a brilliant affair and all of the college set is looking forward to it with much pleasurable anticipation, as one of the most beautiful affairs in school social activities for the entire year.

Druid Banquet.

The social club at Emory, known as "The Druid Club" entertained at a beautiful banquet at the Carlton Tuesday evening.

Around the board were gathered the members of this exclusive social organization headed by Johnny Jones, president, with the fair sponsors and a number of the faculty.

There were toasts and speeches, the girls being called on to respond.

After the banquet the entire body of hosts and guests went to the driving club party given by Dr. and Mrs. McDougald.

A. T. O. Sunday Dinner.

A very happy manner of informal entertaining is employed by the fraternity houses in their Sunday dinner parties.

And this is an occasion which always means a late meal for the freshmen as it befalls these young gentlemen to wait while the honor guests of the occasion take their seats at table.

On Sunday next the A. T. O.'s of Tech, have invited a half dozen girls or more of the younger set, who haven't as yet started the "Georgia pilgrimages," and therefore will not be at little commencement, in to dinner.

Always such as this is a wonderful occasion in all fraternity circles, notwithstanding the varied assortment of silver bearing the markings and monograms of Atlanta's best known hostesses and eating places, used at table.

The A. T. O.'s are unusual hosts and a bright time is looked forward to for this mid-day Sunday affair.

Atlanta Chapter D. A. R. Has Meeting.

The regular meeting of the Atlanta chapter, D. A. R., was held at 3 o'clock Thursday afternoon at the chapter house, and was presided over by the first vice regent, Mrs. James D. Cromer.

Miss Margaret Battle sang and was accompanied by her sister, Miss Helen Battle. Miss Ann McCauley, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. D. McCauley and granddaughter of Mrs. G. A. Howell, rendered several artistic and graceful dance numbers.

Mrs. Robert Blackburn has written a birthday poem for the chairman, Mr. and Mrs. P. D. McCauley, and each year another verse is added. As Thursday was the 35th anniversary, Mrs. Blackburn read the beautiful poem with much feeling.

A birthday cake, the gift of the regent, Mrs. Lucius McConnell, was cut and each past regent present had the honor of cutting a slice, the past regents being Mesdames Mrs. J. C. Wilson, Thomas H. Morgan, John M. Slaton, Bates Block, David Woodward, Charles Rice, Francis Block, Charles A. Davis, E. R. Kirk, Sam D. Jones, and Ben Wylie. Mrs. Lucius McConnell, the regent, presented the chapter with a volume of Historical Collections of the Georgia Chapter's National Society, D. A. R.

Mrs. Woodruff Given Bridge-Luncheon.

Mrs. George Woodruff, who leaves at an early date for Birmingham, Ala., where with Mr. Woodruff and their children they will make their home, is being entertained delightfully at a large number of farewell parties given by her many friends.

On Thursday Mrs. Guy Whittenton was hostess at a bridge-luncheon at the Druid Hills Golf club in honor of Mrs. Woodruff. Twelve guests were invited.

Joint Hostesses Honor Miss Crusselle.

Mrs. A. W. Walker and Mrs. Roy Massey were joint hostesses at a beautiful bridge-tennis Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Massey, on Oakdale road, in Druid Hills, in compliment to Miss Elizabeth Crusselle, a fete bride-elect of the month.

Deliciously Tart—
Wonderfully Good

One of the most tasty dishes that Janet Patch, chief of staff of the Atlanta Milling Company's Home Economics Department, prepares, is her rhubarb pie. If yours is one of the millions of families partial to the tang and zestful flavor of rhubarb, you'll make a mighty big hit if you bake a pie, following directions given here. It's an easy pie to make and bake, too, and invariably turns out well if Capitola Flour is used.

Countless tests have proved that Capitola Flour requires less shortening than ordinary flour—a feature that saves money for every housewife using Capitola.

The Sport Costume

Takes the Lead in Every Smart Wardrobe

The Sport Costume! A sweeping statement nowadays—for it includes practically the entire wardrobe except evening gowns. (Even they reflect the sport influence!) No longer does "Sports wear" mean only the riding habit, the golf or tennis costume, hiking togs—designed only for participation in active sports. The change has been on its way, and has made itself felt for several years past. Now the Sport Frock is a very essential and permanent part of the mode.

(Left)—Deja uses striped bordered satsuma crepe of mint green to fashion this two-piece model. The gay jauntiness of it is enhanced by a deep pleated skirt. Also in blue, $39.50. As pictured in April 15th Vogue.

The Sport Costume has achieved such importance through its great chic, and above all, its comfort. For one is not chic if she is not comfortable—able to move with freedom and grace.

Comfort—distinctive simplicity of line—fine tailoring—happy combination of colors and materials—these are the essentials of the Smart Sport Costume of Today. The woman with impeccable taste in clothes plans her wardrobe with intelligent forethought, and a smart Sport Costume takes the lead.

(Right)—Soft, palmetto green is the chosen shade for this two-piece Deja model. It achieves an unusual and charming effect with its overblouse trimmed with mother o'pearl buttons and a pleated skirt that flares. Also in beige, $39.50. As pictured in April 15th Vogue.

BISHOP OPENS COURT FIGHT AGAINST CHURCH

New York, April 15.—(AP)—Bishop William Montgomery Brown, of the Old Catholic church, began his court fight today to upset the ruling of the house of bishops of the Protestant Episcopal church deposing him from the Episcopal bishopric on charges of heresy.

The first phase of the legal battle was fought before Supreme Court Justice Lydon, who reserved decision on a motion by William W. Skiddy, treasurer of the Episcopal church, to set aside the summons and complaint served on him in the case. Counsel for both sides was given until Monday to submit final papers and memoranda of law.

Bishop Brown was represented by Joseph W. Sharts, of Dayton, and Edward Bushnell, of Cleveland. Mr. Sharts said that Bishop Brown is not seeking relief from his deposition at this point, but relief from being deprived of his $12,000 a year pension.

Attorneys for Mr. Skiddy argued that he was not responsible, and the action should not have been brought against him.

New York, April 15.—(AP)—The New York Society of Accountants began a movement today to amend the federal bankruptcy act so that it will be legal for a bankrupt to keep a portion of his assets. The proposed change is designed to "encourage honesty" and "to strengthen the debtors' moral obligation to reimburse his creditors for bankruptcy losses."

The proposal was made at a session of the committee on commerce, trade and commercial law of the American Bar Association. According to Bernard Bercu, who presented the proposed amendment, the law would be arranged so that creditors might assist a bankrupt according to their view of his honesty and paying ability.

CHURCH MEETING LOST TO ATLANTA AFTER CONFERENCE

The general conference commission of the A. M. E. church met in Allen Temple church here Thursday with Bishop A. J. Carey of Chicago, presiding. Bishop W. D. Johnson, Bishop W. A. Fountain, Alabama diocese, and Bishop J. S. Flipper, of Georgia, assisted in the religious services.

Memorial exercises were held in honor of Bishop W. W. Beckett, who was chairman of the commission at the time of his death. Seating of Dr. H. W. Jamerson, of Illinois, and Dr. H. D. Canady, of Georgia, as contestants on the board of commission brought forth heated debate from both sides, led by Bishop Flipper, John Hurst, W. D. Johnson, A. J. Carey and W. M. Thornton, New York; W. T. Vernon and W. A. Fountain on the opposing side. Both contestants finally were seated.

While the delegation was large and represented all sections of the church, only two places were named in which to hold the general conference in 1928.

1928—Atlanta and Indianapolis, Ind. After hearing petitions from Indianapolis through a delegation led by Dr. R. L. Pope, J. E. Wallace and Bishop W. T. Vernon, presiding bishop over Indiana, the commission chose Indianapolis. Dr. J. E. Hawkins, financial secretary of the church, addressed the body on the subject of the next convention.

Dr. John Harmon, of Georgia, was re-elected secretary of the commission. Eleven general officers are to be elected and seven bishops at the coming general conference in Indianapolis, Ind., in 1928. Rev. R. J. Jefferson, of Athens, will stand for the A. C. E. league work in 1928, it was announced.

Hunt, 63, retired business man of Joplin, Texas, and Mrs. Mollie Phillips, 80, of Birmingham, Ala., were married by Dr. W. W. Holmes, presiding elder of the Shreveport district, M. E. Church, South. The couple had corresponded about a year.

New York Critics Unanimous in Praise Of 'Don Quixote' and Chaliapin's Singing

DE LUCA AND CHALIAPIN

De Luca, as Sancho Panza, at left, and Chaliapin, as Don Quixote, on horseback. The New opera, "Don Quixote," was written for Chaliapin, an old star at the auditorium.

New York Telegram, April 5.—"Mr. Chaliapin was very fine indeed as the sorrowful knight. He delivered eloquently the words of the text. His makeup was duly effective, and his great powers of irony, of pathos, of spiritual suggestion, of fanciful evocation entered fittingly into the play. The Sancho Panza of Mr. de Luca was excellent in makeup, in vocalism, in expression. . . . Lively dancing, a deal of scenery—including two forest sets that are really a credit to Mr. Urban—and conscientious conducting by Mr. Hasselmann were other outstanding elements of an elaborate production. A very large audience lavished applause on the hero of the afternoon."

New York Evening Journal, April 5.—"Long before the Don's death, Mr. Chaliapin lighted up the character with that aspect of uncomprehending impotence, the beguilingly pitiful, that is its Cervantean essence. Throughout the early episode with Dulcinea (who is a light of love in the opera) wherein the Don is sent on a crazy quest for some stolen jewels of hers, there was this touching quality to the bass's acting. And his explosive first sight of the windmills in the second scene made you believe in his delusion about them."

Olga Samaroff's column in the New York Evening Post, April 5.—"It was extraordinary how one sensed the dignity and pathos underlying the exterior absurdities of the errant knight. So much of humanity is held up to our eyes in this amazing creature of the imagination. And it seemed to me that Mr. Chaliapin's penetrating insight and unerring instinct left nothing to be desired. Vocally he was superb. Truly coloratura, sopranos and tenors, no longer have it all their own way. Mr. Chaliapin was acclaimed both before and after his performance."

New York Sun.—"His impersonation was memorable. The makeup, the carriage, the burlesque hauteur, the bland magnificence of gesture, and the perfection of costume were the creations of a master of stage technique. As for the deeper notes of the impersonation, they indeed sounded clearly and firmly. Mr. Chaliapin lost no jot of the pathos of the role. Mr. de Luca as Sancho Panza, was an admirable companion to Mr. Chaliapin. He was a comic picture, but in some of the singing, notably in the necklace scene and the death, there was communicative feeling."

Women Find

Great comfort in this new hygienic pad that discards easily as tissue—no laundry

ON many important counts, women are deserting the old-time "sanitary pad."

There is a new way. A way that multiplies protection. A way, too, that solves the old problem and embarrassment of disposal.

It is called "KOTEX." Ends the insecurity of the old-time sanitary pad. Five times as absorbent! And odorless—ends ALL fear of offending.

✓ As easily disposed of as a piece of tissue. No laundry. No embarrassment.

You get it at any drug or department store simply by saying "KOTEX." You ask for it without hesitancy.

Costs only a few cents. Eight in 10 better-class women employ it. Proves old ways an unnecessary risk.

Atlanta Theater.

All those essentials that go into the making of a folies production are seen in lavish quantities at the Atlanta theater this week, where the 1926 edition of the Junior League Folies are delighting their nightly packed house audiences.

Many stars from the 1925 production are seen again this year as well as a bevy of other stars who are making their initial appearance before the Atlanta public. Critics have unanimously concurred in the opinion that the 1926 production is the largest of any that has been seen and some are going so far as to state that it is better than the Broadway shows of which so much is heard.

Not Wayburn, who again directed the Folies, deserves the highest praise for his efforts and his skill, which is more manifest in the 1926 production than in any of recent years. A special program is being planned for each night of the Folies.

The Rialto.

"The Song and Dance Man," which is the feature picture at the Rialto theater this week, stars Tom Moore, Bessie Love and Harrison Ford in the screen version of George M. Cohan's famous stage play. It was directed by Herbert Brenon. A picture Arthur Murray, teaching the Charleston also is on the program. Mr. Murray taught the Prince of Wales and 400,000 others this dance. On the same program is a repeat of the Harold Lloyd comedy, "I Do," and the news reel by Pathe. Whitney Hubner conducts the musical score.

Loew's Grand.

Roscoe Arls and Katie Pullman are the headliners on a pleasing bill of vaudeville at Loew's Grand theater this week. A special added attraction is a big Charleston dance contest which will start when prizes will be awarded. Another popular act on the bill is "Snooty's Favorite Band," Fisk and Loyd, singers; the Royal Sidneys, jugglers; and Myrtle Boland, soprano. "Dance Madness" is the Loew feature picture for the week.

Tudor Theater.

Bob Custer received two dogs, one rose, twelve pounds of candy, eight pairs of socks and a lavender dressing gown from his admiring friends for Christmas. Bob's latest F. B. O. western thrill is being shown now at the Tudor theater. It is called "Beyond the Rockies" and is based on a widely read magazine story by J. Edward Leithe with the continuity by William E. Wang.

The Howard.

Victor Fleming, Paramount director, evidently believes that even a good story can be made better if entrusted for interpretation on the screen to players of ample merit and experience. "The Blind Goddess," which he has just finished filming and which is playing at the Howard this week, boasts a cast composed of some of the world's finest artists, including Jack Holt, Esther Halston, Ernest Torrence and Louise Dresser.

Hermann Rosse has designed an extremely colorful stage setting for the John Murray Anderson presentation, "Gypsy Folies," which is the stage presentation this week.

The Metropolitan.

Jewish Women Council To Meet April 28

The date of the regular monthly meeting of the Council of Jewish Women has been changed on account of opera and various other conflicts, and will be on Wednesday afternoon, April 28, at three o'clock at the Pryor street temple. At this meeting memorial services will be held for Miss Rose Brenner, the late president of the National Council of Jewish Women, whose very recent death is a great bereavement to the Atlanta chapter as well as to the entire national organization.

Reports will then be given by the delegates who represented Atlanta at the Southeastern Interstate convention held in Shreveport in March.

cognomen! Not a fairy tale, this is actually true of Paul Ellis, who is seen in "The Dancer of Paris" at the Metropolitan theater this week. His real name is Emanuel Granado. He is a South American. While other Latin-appearing actors were casting about for rhythmic names ending in that magic vowel, a real Latin actor with an "o" and everything became Paul Ellis. Ellis is an accomplished dancer as well as an actor. The combination of these two qualities and his Latin appearance were responsible for his being selected for his role in "The Dancer of Paris."

Hal Kemp and his boys from the hills, or formally, the University of North Carolina Jazz orchestra, are drawing a big hand daily as the prologue attraction. Leide's orchestra presents "The Nut Cracker Suite" as the overture. An "Our Gang" comedy is also part of the program.

Over 350 delegates will enjoy the far-famed southern hospitality planned for their entertainment. Mrs. Frances Dudley Gardner, president of the Nashville league, has appointed Mrs. Walter Stokes, Jr., chairman general of the conference, and Mrs. Stokes and her chairmen have been at work for some weeks making preparations for the reception, housing and entertainment of the delegates.

Program Planned.
In addition to several interesting business sessions, a trip to the Hermitage where an old-fashioned barbecue will be given, and a visit to the Junior League's Home for Crippled Children, a number of charming social affairs are to be given not only by league members, but by friends of the league who are opening their spacious homes to the conference.

The following chairmen constitute the Nashville conference committee: Mrs. Walter Stokes, Jr., general chairman; Mrs. Thomas J. Tye, Jr., vice chairman; Miss Martha Linsey, billing; Miss Evelyn Douglas, entertainment; Mrs. Maxwell Horkins, registration; Mrs. Hunter Lettwich, food arrangements; Mrs. Luke Len, transportation; Miss Virginia Jones and Miss Anne Bransford, reception; Miss Frances Stahlman, decoration; Mrs. William Waller, secretarial and printing; Mrs. Byrd Douglas, Jr., publicity.

Issue Special Edition.
The Nashville Junior League issued a special edition of The Tennessean on Easter Sunday and did all the advertising soliciting and sold the papers on the street corners. Colonel Luke Lea, publisher of The Tennessean, welcomed the league's request for cooperation—this is the third time this special stunt has been done in Nashville—and arranged that the league should receive all the money made from street sales of the paper as well as a large per cent of the advertisements appearing in the paper.

FINCH TO ASSUME HIS DUTIES TODAY WITH VET OFFICE

G. K. Finch, commander of Woodrow Wilson camp, No. 1, Disabled American Veterans, today will assume his duties as assistant director of the state veterans' service office at the state capitol. He will be assistant to J. G. C. Bloodworth, director, under provisions of a act of the extra session of the state legislature.

The name of the department has been changed from the veterans' bureau due to confusion of the department with other veterans' organizations.

Rich

in flavor . . . that's why Quaker Oats entices youngsters

THE way to make children like oatmeal is to give them the kind they like.

Thus millions of mothers insist on the Quaker brand. Children who ordinarily don't like oats, take readily to this rich and tasty kind.

Quaker flavor is due to exclusive milling processes which took some 50 years to perfect. Processes, too, which retain much of the "bulk" of oats, which makes laxatives less often needed.

Quick Quaker cooks in 3 to 5 minutes. Thus makes the richest breakfast the quickest.

The price is the same as for ordinary oats. When a substitute is accepted, you alone are the loser.

INSTALLMENT XLVII.

THE BOOK OF LOVE.

Padraic put his arms around Celia and held her very gently but strongly, too.

"That isn't fair..." he protested... "I've told you I'm ready to do all you want... Don't laugh like that..."

"I can't... help... it..." said Celia and went on laughing. "It's... funny..." she explained, breathlessly. Then all at once she stopped. Her small face looked set and defiant.

"It was funny," she insisted. "My asking you to run away with me, and you finding excuses not to go."

Padraic kissed her.

He was sorry for an instant that he had lost his head, but told himself the next somewhat angrily that he didn't care. The kiss had been a distinct failure, for Celia had folded her lips inward so that it was more like kissing her elbow than her mouth.

Celia, on her side, was dreadfully disappointed in herself. The test had come and she had shirked it. But what she had done was quite involuntary. She gave him a sideling glance full of penitence and a little scared.

He had turned away after releasing her, and was standing now looking down into the fire. What if she had offended him irretrievably? She stole up and put her hand on his arm.

"Please..." she whispered. "I didn't mean to be horrid... I was hurt..."

He had just time to steady her as she swayed against him.

"My head does feel so very queer..." she ended piteously.

Now it was Padraic who was all compunction. How could we have forgotten for a moment that she was ill... feverish... not her usual

Her anxious expression relaxed.

self? He put her in the big chair again, and knelt beside her. "Dearest... You must know I'd like nothing better than to carry you off now... this moment."

"Then... tomorrow?"

"Tomorrow. Where is it you want me to take you?"

"O, far away!... Abroad..."

He lifted his face from her hands where he had hidden it, and smiled nervously. Her eyes had such an odd, wild glitter under their slanting lids. He was sure by this time that something very unpleasant must have happened to put her in this overexcited state—this sort of frenzy to get away as soon as possible. If he thwarted her something really terrible might result. She seemed in an alarmingly reckless mood...

But how, how to manage her escape and yet not involve her in a vulgar scandal?

Still smiling nervously he said:

"We must manage it somehow... but have you thought that the steamers are all full by now?"

"Yes, I've thought of that," he answered promptly. "We could go to Canada and sail from there."

His stupefaction was complete.

She, his mysterious Melusine, had thought out the matter practically and beforehand!

"Yes, we could do that," he assented mechanically. Then, brought with a rush by the word Canada, a wonderful solution of their difficulty leaped before him.

He took up her suggestion with enthusiasm before she could speak again:

"Canada will be the very thing!" he cried. "I will find out all about the trains and let you know... make all the arrangements... If we leave by tomorrow afternoon—will that do?"

Overwhelmed by his sudden capitulation and the unexpected eagerness with which he now spoke Celia could only nod silently in agreement. As he continued, however, her anxious expression relaxed, the flush on her cheeks concentrated to two rougelike spots, and once or twice she showed her small teeth in a quick, elated smile.

When he rose to go she rose, too.

"Padraic," she said, "dear Padraic... I couldn't have borne it any longer... You have saved me from what I couldn't have borne even one day longer..."

Then Padraic became absolutely sure once for all, that he was doing the right thing, the only thing possible under the circumstances. Her hand touched his arm as she spoke and he bent and kissed it... What was his amazement to feel on his cheek as he lifted his head again, a light timid kiss in return! And she did not draw back, but stood there looking at him, as if expecting something; the drollest mixture of resolve, dread, gratitude and affection in her greenish eyes.

Their regard said plainly:

"You may kiss me if you wish... This time I will be good..."

But Padraic had had his lesson. He was now convinced that the time, the place, and the loved one, were not yet assembled together. He contented himself by putting an arm about her shoulders and pressing his cheek to hers for good-bye.

On his way home he burst out laughing. The remembered look in her eyes as she had stood before him braced to receive his kiss, plunged him into ecstasies of mirth.

"What an amazing product for this age of soft shell virgins!" was his fond reflection. "But how delicious!"

And he thought with delight of the prolonged wooing that lay before him, and of the wise advice of Balzac: "Plus de preface que de livre."

Nowadays people usually opened the book of love in the middle, skipped to the end and banded it to at one reading. They also preferred an edition in many different little volumes. Whereas his was in one only, unique, precious and sealed with a magic seal.

He forgot momentarily that he too had skimmed some of the little volumes in larger editions. Remembering this a second later, he frowned, then smiled:

"That wasn't the book of love," he thought easily, "but the book of desire..."

Suddenly he snatched off his hat and ran the rest of the way bareheaded, to the astonishment of passersby.

He had such heaps of things to do even before tomorrow.

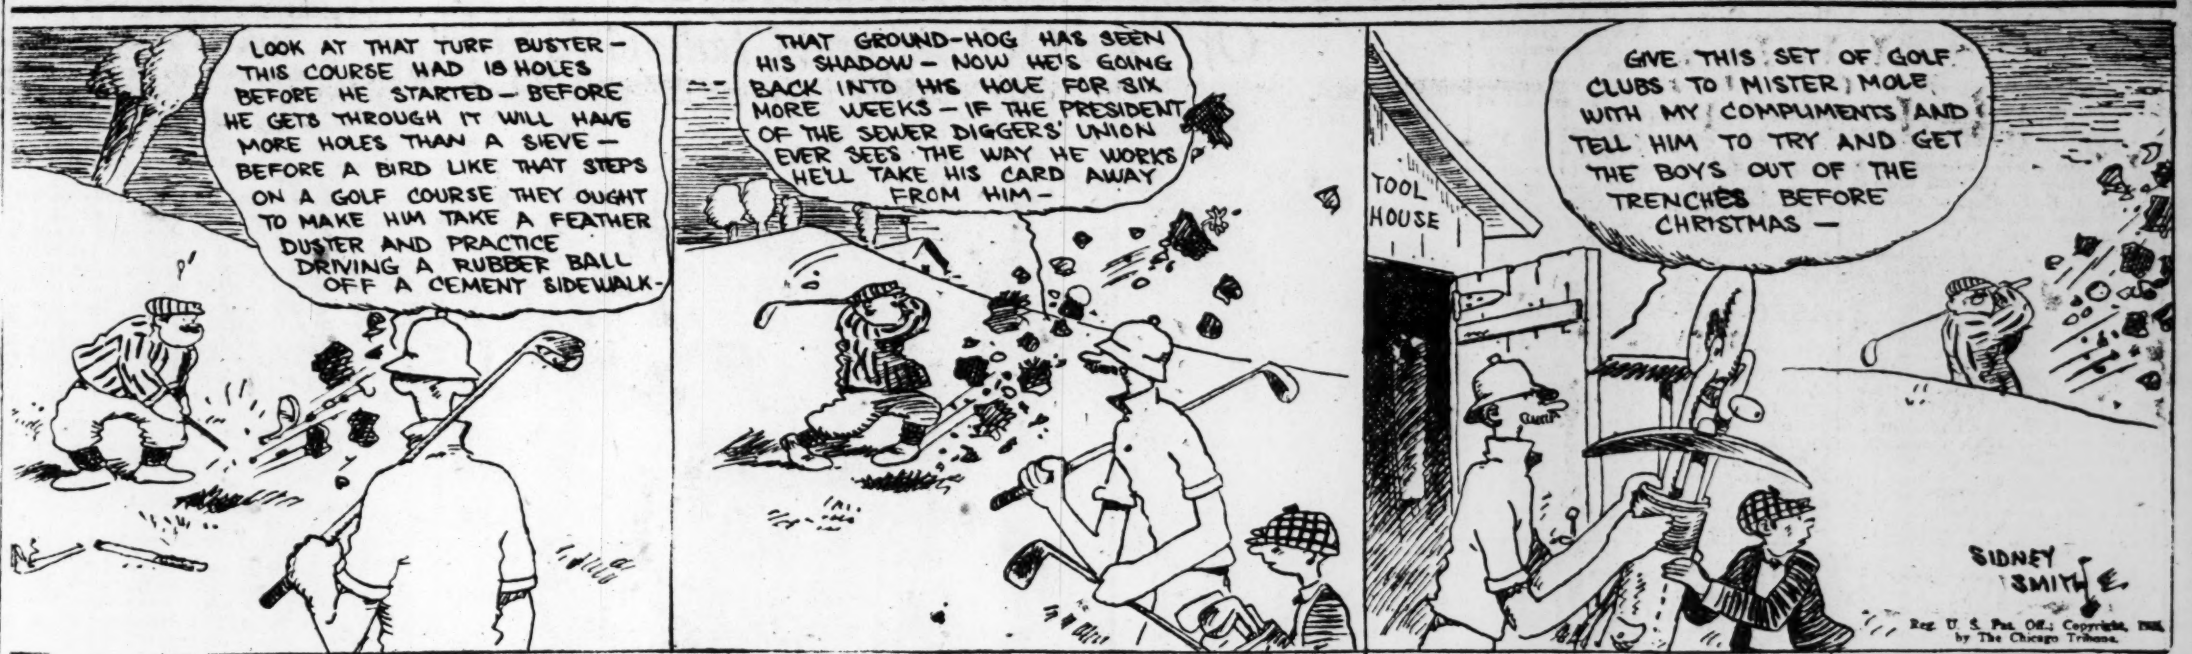

Hilary was at first surprised by the elaborate toilette that Celia had chosen for a quiet dinner at home. Then he understood. "She dressed in her loveliest gown for her lover, of course," he told himself.

And yet, was it her loveliest? He had decided it for her when he was under the charm of the old school of Persian painting, and though she looked delicately uncanny in the wired out tunic woven with silver flowers, and the petaled skirts of mauve and purple, he preferred her in darker gowns.

Her expression puzzled him, it was so cold and set; the expression of one who had been dismissing an enemy rather than receiving a lover. He was wondering if by any chance O'Shea had offended her in some way; if perhaps she had come to a decision and it was against, not for, that youth? This was a very pleasing idea for him, for the more he thought of O'Shea the less he considered him a suitable mate for Celia. Exactly what sort of man would be suitable for her he had not worked out, but at least he would not in any respect resemble O'Shea.

Country Bankers Hear State Extension as Field for Farm Products and Development

School Conditions and Cotton Surplus Deplored; Fort Valley Man Is Elected President.

C. E. Martin, of Fort Valley, was named president of the Country Bankers Association of Georgia, at the Friday session of the tenth annual convention at the Biltmore hotel.

M. L. Lee, of Moultrie, was named first vice president; R. L. McLean, of Jasper, second vice president; L. R. Adams, of Atlanta, was elected secretary-treasurer and Alex W. Smith, Jr., of Atlanta, elected general counsel.

The executive council of the organization for 1926, also elected Friday afternoon, will consist of: James S. Peters, Manchester; T. A. Mitchell, Douglas; R. B. Dixon, West Point; C. E. Martin, Fort Valley; M. L. Lee, Moultrie; C. W. Skinner, Waynesboro; R. L. McLean, Jasper; Cliff Kinsey, Cornelia; Albert N. Tullin, Cave Springs; C. T. Smith, Concord; John H. Gorman, Rome; and H. H. Scott, Tifton.

In addition to the election of officers, the Friday afternoon session was featured by the annual report and address of the president, Mr. Martin.

Mr. Martin spoke of the utility of outsiders trying to tell bankers how they should conduct their business. He pointed out the fact that it is rare to find a banker speaking exclusively on the subject of banking, on the program of bankers' conventions and urged that the bankers of the association, in conducting their own banks, should follow the dictates of their own experience and manage their business as they see fit.

At noon, delegates and visitors will be guests at lunch of Foote & Davis company, printers and lithographers, after which they will be shown over the plant in which the baseball game will be played.

Thursday morning's session was devoted to a discussion of Georgia development, past, present and future, led by prominent figures in the various departments of state government.

Dr. M. L. Britton, president of the Georgia School of Technology, speaking on education in Georgia, declared that the state has too many colleges dependent on the state.

"The advance of higher education in Georgia," he said, "should be confined to the state university at Athens, for state support of higher education in Georgia is a burden on the state, and two or three colleges for women."

Dr. Britton deplored the "tendency to establish state universities, departments of state government, and the Georgia School of Technology, and two or three colleges for women."

Dr. Britton deplored the "tendency to establish state universities, departments of state government, and the Georgia School of Technology, and two or three colleges for women."

Charles A. Stanton, president of the Agricultural Appraisal company, of Columbus, Ohio, speaking on the subject of farming northern farmers to Georgia lands.

Mr. Stanton suggested that the present owners of the lands in every county should be asked to organize local farm construction companies, to be owned and operated entirely locally, with 25,000 or more acres of land, and to be a revolving fund for buying, subdividing, improving, clearing, leasing, operating and selling the small modernly improved farms for settlement purposes only.

If such a plan is followed, Mr. Stanton said, in a few years Georgia will witness an influx of the finest type of American citizens who are eager, by proper conditions, to leave their homes in the cold north and come to Georgia, the state best adapted to profitable farming and which offers more inducements than any other.

Cite Georgia's Appeals.

Georgia offers possibilities in land development and agriculture far ahead of those of any other state, said Mr. Stanton, giving as reasons for this statement her splendid location in the same latitude with southern California and being so near the center of population and the markets of the world; her natural physical conditions in soil, climate, rainfall, water supply, drainage and topography, giving to every section of your state special crop and livestock advantages; her long growing season; her fertile soil; her well adapted for the profitable cultivation of all the staple, fruit, nut, truck and vegetable crops grown in the south; her large areas of more or less distressed farms and idle lands in proportion to her area in cultivation than any other state in the union; her low land values compared to her big crop yields and earnings possibilities in truck, fruit, dairy and poultry farming; and her general development in modern school and church systems and public roads and progressive villages and towns together with her excellent railroad and shipping facilities well distributed all over the state.

B. M. Lufburrow, Georgia state forester, made a striking appeal for conservation of the state's timber resources and reforestation of the cut-over timber lands. "Georgia has wasted her forests and must start a sound program of reforestation and forest protection if she would stop an economic loss amounting to millions annually," said Mr. Lufburrow.

If the Georgia farmer plants the average of cotton he is evidently planting for the next year or two, "God help us all," said C. A. Cobb, editor of The Southern Ruralist. He urged the bankers to do all in their power to bring about a reduction in the cotton acreage, stating that large acreage with the present condition of the cotton market, means inevitable loss.

to the state through less than production cost prices.

Georgia spends $2,838,000 a year in the education of "repeaters," children who, by reason of physical defects or lack of earlier sound training must be taught twice what they should learn in one year," said Dr. T. F. Abernethy, of the state board of health, in urging the need of public health education service.
